'Campbell Figurehead'—Jim Norris Runs NHL

(See also Page 12)

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton's Hugh McLean, former NHL referee, charged today that Clarence Campbell, president of the league, is "just a figurehead" and that in fact the National Hockey League is run by Jim Norris, chairman of the board of the Chicago Black Hawks.

McLean was commenting on the sudden resignation Tuesday of Red Storey, senior official in the NHL.

The Hamilton referee also quit suddenly several years ago after an incident in a hotel lobby with Rocket Richard.

McLean said the Richard incident had nothing to do with his leaving the NHL.

"It was just that Jim Norris didn't want me, that's all it was," he said today.

Storey, 41, announced Tuesday he was resigning after he read criticism of his officiating of a playoff game by NHL president Clarence Campbell.

Storey was referee of a Stanley Cup semi-final game Saturday in Chicago which was won by Montreal Canadiens, 5-4. The game ended in a near riot as fans critical of Storey's refereeing threw debris on the ice.

Clarence Campbell should atone for his "blunder."

The text of the editorial: "Whether NHL president Clarence Campbell was talking off-the-record when he criticized the officiating of big Red Storey in last Saturday's hockey game seems quite beside the point in the future accompanying the almost forced resignation of the referee."

"Hitherto Mr. Campbell may have criticized his officials face-to-face, as it is his responsibility to do. To offer criticism of his own staff to outsiders is something that is just not done."

"Red Storey is part of hockey, and an important part. He should not be allowed to depart the game he loves in this fashion. What the hockey world should do is see that he gets the full vote of confidence he deserves. And the initiative in the matter is Mr. Campbell's. It is the only way he can atone for his blunder."

MONTREAL (CP)—A series of crank telephone calls were received at the home of referee Red Storey here.

Mrs. Storey said the calls were "annoying more than anything."

"They were probably from people who had bet on the game," she said.

"Some of the callers said that Red had better not come back home."

MONTREAL—The Montreal Star said in an editorial today resigned hockey referee Red Storey should get a full vote of confidence from the hockey world and National Hockey League president.

$616M Federal Deficit Record Peacetime High

RECOVERY UNDER WAY

Living Costs Climbed; Real Earnings Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living standards underwent a slight decline in 1958, Parliament was informed today.

Living costs outpaced small gains in wages, reducing real earnings and paring consumers' purchasing power for the first time in recent years, Finance Minister Fleming reported in his pre-budget white paper.

Adding up the over-all economic score for 1958, he concluded that while recession may have hit Canada hard, recovery now is under way.

The big problem for 1958 was unemployment, which hit a postwar high.

Exports Decline

A lot of key exports, such as newsprint and metals, declined. Interest rates increased. Bond prices fell.

But there was "mounting evidence" late in the year that "recovery was under way," Mr. Fleming said.

"In marked contrast to the same period 12 months earlier, economic activity in the fourth quarter of 1958 rose substantially. The volume of non-farm output of seasonally adjusted annual rates expanded by approximately two per cent."

The overall production rise in 1958 was "modest." The gross national product-value of all goods and services produced—climbed by 2.5 per cent to a record $32,200,000,000, but four-fifths of this rise was in prices.

As the economy struggled to get back on its feet, farm folks may have fared a bit better than city dwellers. Farm cash income, which had eased in 1957, swelled by eight per cent to $2,808,000,000, just two per cent below the 1952 record.

Labor, generally, had its troubles. While the over-all civilian labor force rose to 6,127,000 from 6,003,000 in 1957, the number of persons with jobs dipped to 5,722,000 from 5,746,000.

AT LABOR LAW

'Second Look' By Smallwood

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA—Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood promised in a Canadian Club address today his provincial government will review its recent controversial labor legislation.

The premier, speaking before a record gathering, carefully avoided comment on his strained relations with the federal government.

He said that the labor legislation was passed during the bitter logging strike because "stark disaster stared us in the face."

The polka-dot bow-tied premier described the controversial legislation as "the most progressive in Canada."

He promised, however, that "when the present excitement dies down in Newfoundland we will take another look at the legislation."

Mr. Smallwood said the present "excitement" will die down and "Canada will resume its role of ignoring Newfoundland as it has done for the last 10 years."

The remark dissolved the audience into laughter, cheers and applause.

Another remark which brought prolonged applause was: "We will not allow union gangsterism or gangster unionism in Newfoundland."

NO PCS

The head table guests included Opposition Leader Pearson, J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonaville, Twillingate, and other Liberals but no Progressive Conservatives.

Earlier Mr. Smallwood called on Mr. Pearson at the Opposition Leader's office in the Parliament building.

Mr. Smallwood said after the half-hour visit that he and Mr. Pearson had had a "pleasant chat" and that they will be having dinner together tonight.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of the pre-budget white paper tabled in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming:

Budget deficit for fiscal year ended March 31 estimated at peacetime high of $616,000,000 compared with $38,000,000 in previous year.

Expenditures rise to all-time high of $5,387,400,000, compared with $5,087,400,000 in 1957-58.

Revenues drop to $4,770,800,000 from $5,048,800,000.

Budget spending does not include $376,000,000 for old age security and $211,800,000 drawn from special defence equipment fund.

Personal income tax largest revenue item at $1,371,000,000, but down from $1,499,000,000.

Defence largest budget item at $1,437,200,000, but down from $1,687,400,000.

Finance minister says Canada past unemployment peak.

Gross national product rises 2.5 per cent to record $32,200,000,000, but higher prices mainly responsible.

Federal net debt at March 31 estimated at $11,685,800,000, a rise of $639,500,000 in the year.

Personal income rises to $24,586,000,000 from $23,142,000,000.

Corporation profits slip to $2,820,000,000 from $3,009,000,000 before taxes.

Bad News On Taxes Thursday

OTTAWA (CP)—The crystal-gazers have called the shot. Some taxes may be slightly raised Thursday night. But which ones and how much are the big mysteries.

One thing appears certain—taxpayers are not likely to be able to pull out many plums from Finance Minister Fleming's second major accounting to Parliament and the public.

Faced with the prospect of record government spending, the budget Mr. Fleming presents at 8 p.m. (5 p.m. PST) Thursday is likely to be one based on the need of obtaining higher revenues.

The huge budget deficit may be reduced, but there is no likelihood at this stage that Mr. Fleming will try to balance the books. The aim would be to increase confidence in the government bond market which sagged last year amid heavy government borrowing.

In a sense, too, Mr. Fleming may have to tread gently in the search for more revenue to make sure he doesn't upset economic recovery. Some authorities say too great a tax load could discourage industrial expansion.

Defence remained the heaviest budget expenditure—at $1,437,200,000, but the special draw-down from the defence equipment fund helped bring

Fleming Reports On 1958-59 Year

By JOHN LEBLANC, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A peacetime record budget deficit of $616,000,000 is indicated for the federal 1958-59 fiscal year, Finance Minister Fleming told Parliament today.

Budget spending soared to an all-time high of $5,387,400,000, he estimated in a White Paper, while budget revenues fell by $278,000,000 to $4,770,800,000 in the year ended March 31.

OTHER DETAILS ON PAGE 6

Everybody 'In Hock' By $685

OTTAWA (CP)—The net debt of the federal government was an estimated $11,685,800,000 at March 31—roughly $685 for each of the 17,340,000 people in Canada.

The pre-budget white paper, tabled in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming, showed the net debt rose $639,500,000 during the 1958-59 fiscal year.

At the start of the year the net debt of the government—$11,046,300,000—represented $649 for each of the 17,000,000 population at April 1, 1958.

The increase was due to the record peacetime deficit estimated at $616,000,000 for the year plus an adjustment of $22,900,000 covering previous years' transactions.

The cost of financing the public debt—mainly interest payments—rose to $644,400,000 for the year, up by $77,000,000 from the 1957-58 year. The total represented 12 per cent of budget expenditures.

The figures are subject to revision about August, when final accounts for the year are in. But the white paper estimates are customarily close to the mark.

The 1958-59 deficit compares with an all-time high of $2,558,557,000 in the war year of 1944-45. The previous peacetime record was $390,342,000 in 1919-20. The top since the Second World War was $151,849,000 in 1956-57.

A variety of normal non-budgetary transactions left the government's cash balances up by $166,000,000 compared with a year earlier.

At the end of the year, the net debt stood at $11,685,800,000, an increase of $639,500,000. In budget revenue, the personal income tax continued as the largest single source of intake, bringing in $1,371,000,000, down from $1,449,000,000.

The white paper said the decreases resulted from decreases in rates and increases in exemptions for dependents.

CORPORATE TAXES DOWN

Corporation income tax yielded $1,029,000,000, down from $1,234,800,000. It was the second-highest producer. The drop of almost $206,000,000 was accounted for largely by lower corporate profits in 1958.

The income taxes do not include revenue from the special 2 per cent tax for old age security—the universal pension paid at the age of 70.

Defence remained the heaviest budget expenditure—at $1,437,200,000, but the special draw-down from the defence equipment fund helped bring

Family allowance payments of $474,900,000 were up from $437,900,000, reflecting an increase in the number of children in the eligible age groups and an increase in the monthly allowances effective in late 1957.

In a review of the Canadian economy for the 1958 calendar year, the white paper said the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—climbed 2.5 per cent to a record $32,200,000,000. However, four-fifths of the increase was accounted for by price rises.

LABOR DELEGATES HIT BY FOOD POISONING

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hundreds of delegates to the AFL-CIO unemployment conference here were stricken with food poisoning, some en route Tuesday night and others in the meeting hall today.

At least 30 were taken to hospitals from the National Guard Armory where the meeting was held. One man was reported in serious condition.

Shooting in the Vatican Wounds Swiss Guard Chief

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The commander of the Pope's Swiss Guards, Col. Robert Nuenlist, was shot and wounded today by a disgruntled former guardsman. The ex-guardsman, Adolf Rucker, was wounded when the commander sought to disarm him.

An ex-Swiss Guard fired two pistol shots at the commander of the corps, wounding him, but not seriously, the guards headquarters announced.

The ex-Swiss Guard had insisted on being re-enlisted into service after having been expelled last year because of epileptic symptoms caused by a cranial trauma.

There were varying accounts as to whether the former guardsman shot himself or Rucker. The colonel went to a Vatican courtyard.

August Nuenlist heard two shots, then a pause and two more. He ran out and found his father wrestling with Rucker. The son helped subdue the ex-guardsman.

The shootings, unprecedented in the history of the Swiss Guards, caused turmoil at the Vatican.

At first there was tight secrecy in the case. The head of the Vatican press office, Dr. Luciano Casimiri, responded to questions by saying that the matter was "too delicate" for him to discuss.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Ralph Romeo, bad luck and all, took a flying leap out a third-storey window when detectives on a book-making raid battered down his door.

Romeo, 43, was trying for the rooftop of a building next door, a flight of four feet. He made it.

But once there he couldn't find a way downstairs. Detectives extended a plank over to him and Romeo sheepishly walked back.

Detectives found some betting slips and charged him with bookmaking.

50-Cent Increase
In Oak Bay Water

Oak Bay Council is expected to increase water rates Monday when it completes the 1959 budget.

An increase of 50 cents in the minimum $3 bi-monthly charge has been recommended by works committee. It also has been suggested that the rate per unit (623 gallons) be increased a cent to 10 cents for use of 13 to 400 units.

Over 400 units, the charge would be raised from 7.2 to eight cents per unit.

SINKING FUND

Increased revenue would permit establishment of a sinking fund for replacement of water mains expected to cost $45,000 over the next three years.

Terms of the new contract were not disclosed, but it was understood that it contains a series of wage increases and rule changes that work out to an over-all pay boost of about 14 cents an hour.

The wage-increases are about the same paid to 130,000 non-operating railway employees on the CPR and CNR, railway sources said.

TORONTO — Canada and the United States are surfeited with gadgets that make people sick, according to a modern-day Thoreau who arrived today on the last leg of a five-month lecture tour.

According to him, North Americans are the best fed people on earth and the most undernourished. They poison themselves daily drinking chlorinated water and eating food preserved by the use of more than 700 chemicals; they drive all the vitamins out of their meals cooking them; they live far too materialistic a life; "they are going much too fast to get any real enjoyment from this wonderful world."

size

Mother, as the family minister of health and welfare, knows the value of vitamins. She also knows that they cost money. So she has an eagle eye for the large economy size in vitamins, and many other things, when she shops. This way she keeps the family budget in line.

The Minister of Health and Welfare at Ottawa has a budget too. He uses it to pay for various important services. Among these are Family Allowances and Old Age Benefits.

Money for the Minister of Health and Welfare's budget comes through the Minister of Finance. This is true of other departments also.

It's no secret how the Minister of Finance obtains this money. He gets it largely in taxes from millions of Canadians like you. If he spends more than he gets from you, he must turn around and borrow from you the amount he has overspent... or else create new money.

The creation of new money is one factor that leads to inflation—when the dollar buys less and less. So, as a thrifty Canadian, you are wise to ask government only for those services you are willing to pay for... with taxes.

Personally, you try to pay as you go, to live within your income. It is important that government try to do the same thing.

You want to live well now and to realize all your ambitions for the best possible future. That future is tied up with a sound dollar—a dollar whose purchasing power you can depend on.

A SOUND DOLLAR MEANS A BETTER LIFE FOR YOU

National Transport Policy Urged by CCF

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — The federal government's proposed royal commission on railway policy and freight rates should lay down the basis for a national transportation policy, the CCF said Tuesday.

"There is need for such a policy," Harold Winch, of Vancouver East, said in the House as it debated a government measure for a $20,000,000 subsidy to reduce rates during the next year.

Of the government's recent announcement that it will set up a royal commission to draft long-term measures to follow up the subsidy, Mr. Winch inquired:

"Is it going to be for freight rates only or what we should have had years ago—a real study into the transportation situation resulting in a real national transportation policy?"

Transport Minister Hees, piloting the subsidy legislation through preliminary stages in the House, gave no details of the commission's terms of reference.

At the night sitting Mr. Hees promised that the terms of reference of the proposed royal commission will be announced before the subsidy legislation is given third and final reading. The announcement would be made in "the next few days."

The subsidy measure is aimed at easing the impact of last fall's 17 per cent general freight rate increase upon class and commodity freight rates.

Corporal Punishment Under Fire

Abolition of corporal punishment was supported by members of all three parties in the House Tuesday, but one dissenting voice suggested it be retained for such crimes as rape.

Opposing abolition during a one-hour debate, Art Smith (PC-Calgary South), said such crimes as rape deserve to be punished by the lash so that the offender will carry with him the punishment for the rest of his life.

"He may deserve it, but what good does it do?" interjected Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East), long-time advocate of the abolition of the lash.

But before Mr. Smith could reply the hour reserved for private members' legislation was over. The bill, sponsored by Ontario member Frank McGee (PC-York - Scarborough), has little chance of coming up for debate again this session.

Mr. McGee, supported by Liberal and CCF speakers, said no evidence supports claims that corporal punishment, which he described as "outmoded, savage," is a deterrent to crime.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker Tuesday suggested further study of a West German proposal for a commission to supervise and promote German reunification.

Referring in the House to the NATO council meeting at Washington last week, the prime minister said "the Canadian delegation expressed the hope that there would be increasing co-operation at the technical level between the federal republic and the East German regime."

"It would, in the Canadian view, be fruitful to give fur-

Freedomite Statement 'Nebulous'

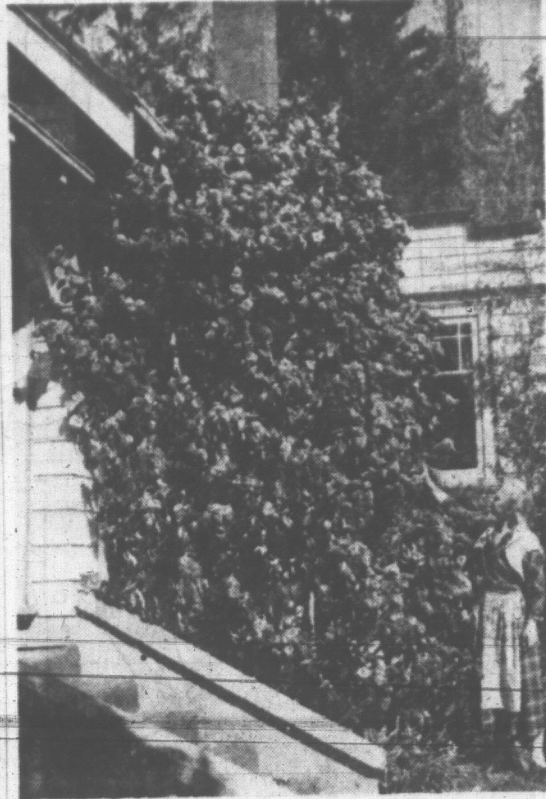

OTTAWA (CP)—A copy of a statement given RCMP at Krestova, B.C., earlier this week by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect has been received by the justice department here.

The copy, forwarded by the RCMP, is "nebulous" and says little of a positive nature, a department official indicated Tuesday. There was no indication it that the sect had dropped plans to emigrate to Russia.

Sect leaders have denied reports the statement said this. They said they have wired the Soviet Embassy here to make this point.

Any official government comment on the Doukhobor statement is expected to come after Justice Minister Fulton returns from his current tour of northern RCMP posts and it is not being made public at this time.

Biggest Camellia On Pacific Coast

Saanich today claimed it has the largest camellia shrub on the Pacific Coast.

The camellia, owned by A. J. Ingram of Greentrees, Old West Saanich Road, is 15 feet tall and more than eight feet across.

Bert Richman, Saanich parks supervisor, said he hasn't seen a larger camellia tree on the Pacific Coast.

"I guess we can say the largest and the tallest camellia is growing in Saanich," he said.

Mr. Ingram also believes the shrub is the tallest on the coast.

"I've had people from California tell me that they have never seen so tall a shrub," he said.

The camellia is quite a show piece. There are more than 1,000 flowers in bloom.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat. Only 43¢.

Day of Reckoning

TOMORROW THE DIEFENBAKER Government must face, for the first time, the results of its financial spree. The hangover will be painful to watch as the budget is introduced. It will be painful for the taxpayers if taxes are increased and it may be even more painful for the economic system if they are not.

No one wants to pay more taxes — especially when the Government promised to reduce them drastically. But no one (except, perhaps, a few speculators) wants to see the present disorder continue in the national treasury. Somehow the work of restoring confidence in the Government's bonds and in the Canadian dollar must begin.

To be sure, the deficit which has depressed bonds, raised interest rates, increased the national debt and led to a 12 per cent inflation of the currency in the last year cannot be eliminated in one budget. Such a massive recovery — under a Government which promised a balanced budget — will take time, a year or two at least.

The real question to be answered by Mr. Fleming tomorrow is whether the work of repair is even to begin now or is to be postponed by timidity.

If the Government is wise financially it will try at least to reduce the deficit, either by revising its expenditures downward or moving taxes somewhat upward, or both.

If it is wise politically it will make the voters swallow this bitter but inevitable pill now, in the hope that they will forget it by next election day.

And if it is candid the Government will admit that its election promises of boundless spending and reduced taxes were impossible and must now be repudiated.

The financial crisis being what it is, and the Government's answer to it as yet unknown, Thursday night will be an important date in Canadian history — as Tuesday was in Britain where another Conservative Government has cut taxes substantially and still balanced its budget.

Hopeful Love Affair

MR. STRACHAN HAS WAGED a stubborn battle with the sansculottes of the CCF and he seems to have beaten them, for the time being anyway.

The election platform roughed out at the party's recent conference is relatively moderate by the standards of the past and the original dreams of the Regina Manifesto, so far as it concerns the old socialist ideal of public ownership.

Only two great corporations, the B.C. Electric and the B.C. Telephone, would be nationalized by a CCF government and then, says the new manifesto, for no ideological reason but only as sound, profitable business.

With good reason the CCF sees in the public control of these natural monopolies a popular election cry even if it is by no means socialism as that term is usually understood. Electricity is publicly owned in many non-socialist areas of America. Telephones are operated by the non-socialist Manitoba and Alberta Governments. Electrical and telephone rates being relatively high in British Columbia, public ownership may appeal to many voters as an assurance of cheaper service.

When it came to consider competitive business, however, the CCF beat a long retreat from its earlier objectives, though not without a bitter rearguard action by Mr. Colin Cameron and the other Simon-pure socialists.

To many uncommitted voters it will appear disturbing that a plan to operate government timber industries was defeated by only 101 votes to 60. Clearly there was a hard core of real socialism in the conference despite the presence of Premier T. C. Douglas, who is courting big business in Saskatchewan and commending capitalism with notable ardor.

A C.C.F. government in British Columbia, under present plans, would not take over the timber industry but it would be constantly pressed to do so by its left wing. The final outcome of this contest within the party would remain in doubt. Meanwhile a CCF government would try to improve the industry's methods by means left deliberately vague. But the policy probably would involve higher taxes calculated to damage the industry's competitive position in the world market.

Indeed, higher taxes for everybody are implicit in the party's whole program of increased spending, though that prospect, too, is carefully larded with generalities.

If the CCF's main political concern was to appear moderate and eschew its old radicalism, it was compelled to make a major issue of Bill 43. Being in the first difficult stage of marriage with the labor unions — a courtship only so far — the CCF had to support their attack on the new provincial legislation, and also to misrepresent it.

Everyone who has read the statute as well as the furious speeches surrounding it, knows that no interference with labor's legitimate rights is intended or, in fact, possible. But to satisfy its intended partner the CCF attacked a very moderate reform as if, in Mr. Douglas' usual hyperbole, it were worse than the Newfoundland labor legislation and, in his opinion, the beginning of the Canadian fascism.

This kind of extreme language and pumped-up moral indignation will not help the CCF cause among most British Columbians. On the contrary, if it proposes to use Bill 43 as the chief issue of the next election nothing will suit Mr. Bennett better.

He evidently intends to make the poll so far as possible a referendum on his labor policy so that all the sins of his ministry will be forgotten.

The CCF, by staking its future so largely on the labor unions, and their hostility to the new law, is playing straight into the Government's hands.

Mr. Bennett is always lucky in his enemies — as Mr. Strachan is unlucky in some of his friends.

No Place for Secrecy

THE COMPLAINT OF A TORONTO alderman that an attempt had been made to bribe her has been followed by a deluge of reports of similar attempts to buy the official services of elected officials in Metropolitan Toronto.

The Ontario situation is a serious one, and leads to the question of how prevalent bribery attempts may be elsewhere in Canada.

Bribery and attempted bribery of municipal councillors or officers are federal offences and can be punished by two years' imprisonment. While a discreet bribery attempt may be difficult to prove, there can be no doubt that immediate publicity of the offer, and laying of a charge by the municipal official involved would be an effective deterrent.

It appears that the Ontario officials have not done this. They have refused the bribes but have not followed up by laying a charge against the offender. The Toronto Globe and Mail suggests editorially that failure to report bribery attempts also be made a punishable offence, so that any potential briber would know that his offer would be followed by legal action.

Such legislation is now operative in Britain. A similar principle has long been in effect in boxing circles, where a boxer approached to throw a fight must report the offer or lay himself open to penalties.

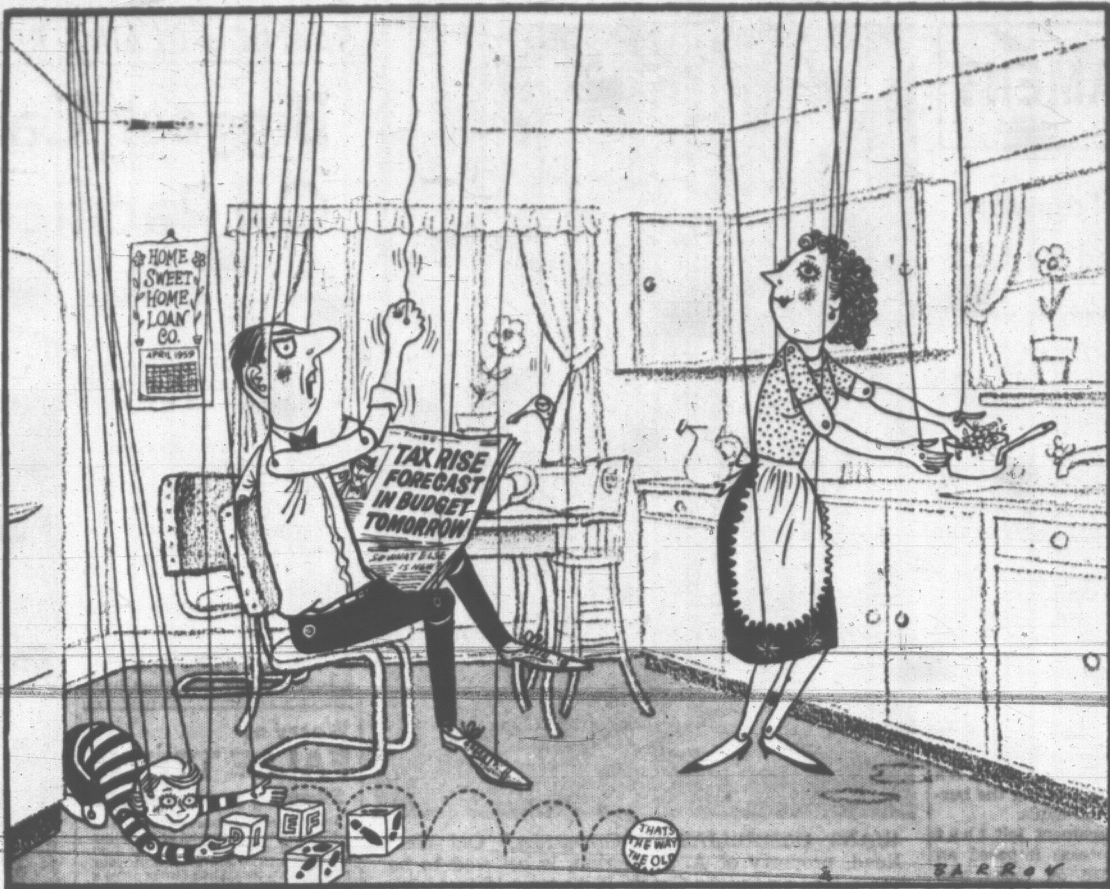

Such a law in Canada would strengthen the position of honest municipal office holders and do much to stamp out a practice which apparently has made quiet headway under the cloak of secrecy imposed by officials reluctant to name the law breakers.

Hark, Hark, the Dogs Do Bark . . .

THE PORTLAND OREGONIAN raises the question: "Do dogs say something to each other when they bark?" And then answer it affirmatively, on the basis of a book by canine expert Will Judy.

No dog lover will deny the assertion, and even non-dog lovers will go along with the thesis to a considerable extent. The main concern of the latter, however, will not be to question whether the dogs mean anything, but to wonder why they must repeat it, and repeat it, and repeat it, and repeat it, at two o'clock of a sleepless morning.

"They can't do that to us . . .!"

FINE FEATHERED FUN

What to Watch When Out Watching

THIS is the time of year, I gather, when bird watchers turn out in force for their favorite pastime. With so many tourist birds passing through the district the spectator sport is at its height. I get this only at second or third hand, however, and it may not be accurate. I never seem to see many birds, myself. Other people see them. Other people can even name them. "I saw a —," they say, and then they tell you what it was. I have never been able to achieve that state of knowledge. Not that birds and I don't get along well. We do. They look after bird-dom; I look after man-dom. It works out fine. I'm not so much a non-bird watcher as just a bird non-watcher.

I don't know whether or not birds watch me. As a hobby, that is. Some, I know, watch me as a safety measure, just as I watch seagulls. But I rarely notice birds observing me and making a mental note. Not that I blame them either. Even my passport says I have no distinguishing marks.

No Comment

I doubt if any bird ever says to another bird: "See that homo sapiens down there? He'll be watching."

If they say anything at all, it's probably a muttered "There's another of 'em," as they take off for some distant part of the woods.

So you might say that relations are fairly good between birds and me. I don't begrudge the quail the potatoes, or the robins the worms, or the whatever-they-are that gobble up grass seed. And they don't appear to blame me for the gradual disappearance of their woods, the march of the power saws and bulldozers that accompany man's encroachment on the scene.

One of the big difficulties with birds is naming them. A bird watcher makes free with a lot of terms that serve only to confuse bird non-watchers.

He remarks casually that he saw a pair of Quilted Brickbats and kept them under observation for all of three and a half minutes. His notebook shows that many a time he has watched Nutcrackers, Boobyhatches, Double-Breasted Seersuckers, Crested Chickadees, Tested Recipes, Rustled Filigrees and other feathered friends.

He's right at home with all this sort of thing. His vocabulary is geared for it; it's for the birds.

But I can't claim any such familiarity. I can sometimes tell one kind of bird from another, but it ends there. I can't tell anybody else about it.

What's in a Name?

Over the years I have worked out my own ornithological terms, of course, because birds are something you can't stay completely mum about. But my system of nomenclature hasn't yet been recognized by any of the bird watchers' organizations and there seems to be no move on foot to do so.

Originally, my system divided birds into two broad classifications: Big Ones and Little Ones. This proved inadequate as time went on, however, and it was necessary to introduce sub-classifications based on color.

Thus you would have Big Black Ones, Little Yellow Ones, and so forth. But even with this detail there were shortcomings.

Much as I hated to complicate the situation, I was forced to adopt even further subdivisions, so that you would hear references to Big Black Ones with Grey Necks, Little Yellow Ones with Black Wings, Big Grey Ones with Red Beaks and so on.

This ultimate division seemed to answer all requirements and I have used it for years with apparent success. I say apparent because while in my own mind I am quite certain which birds I mean when I name them, in this way,

I find a considerable amount of fuzziness in the minds of bird watchers who fail to recognize them.

This has led me to wonder more than once if some bird watchers are quite sure of themselves. I recall on one occasion, in fact, a rather warm discussion between two accomplished bird watchers who could not understand my simple mention of a Small Grey One with Brown Wings. Their vociferous disagreement about the bird confirmed a long-held suspicion that my system of reference was far superior to theirs.

However, as I say, I am not a bird watcher. There are much more interesting travellers than birds passing through this part of the country and what little watching I do is confined almost exclusively to them.

Only last summer I spotted a great rarity, a Red-Eyed California Curbhugger, and kept him under observation until he disappeared into the Strathcona (lounge, not park).

On another occasion I was privileged to watch a pair of Washington Squabblers who were having a little trouble about a dinner check. But this was nothing compared with the delight of spying for a full 10 minutes on a bevy of Golden-crested Oregon Charmers who were nesting temporarily in a Cadillac convertible.

Peepers' Diary

Now and then some more exotic specimen appears, but one must be quick to spot it. Leafing at random through my notebook I see references to a Ruby-headed Manhattan Temptress, a Provincial Debt Boaster, a Labor-billed Union Baiter, and a Mainland Backbencher (politico obscura).

These will give at least a glimpse of the interest and entertainment to be found in conscientious observation of our fine-feathered friends. No equipment is needed and the hobby can be pursued in one's leisure hours. In no time at all you can become so engrossed in watching such specimens you'll soon begin to feel you are one of them.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Questions for Mr. George

The letter by Mr. J. A. A. George, April 2, is a satisfactorily clear statement of the attitudes of himself and Mr. Deane Finlayson to Wenner-Gren.

The rest of Mr. George's letter is an argument that there should be a full investigation of the matter that electric energy from Canadian uranium might be much cheaper than hydro-electric power from a dam on the Peace.

He and Mr. Finlayson could get reliable information about this almost instantly from our Canadian atomic scientists. Why don't they? This does not require a royal commission or any laborate committee of inquiry.

Mr. George does not penetrate into the curious matter that Peace River Power Development Co. directors gave out to the public after the February 20 meeting — that the objective is to use Peace power to process uranium to make atomic power plants; and that Tom Gould, an Ottawa correspondent, has reported that he was told by a spokesman of the Federal Government that no application for a supply of uranium has been made by the company. It seems unlikely that Ottawa would grant uranium to the like of Wenner-Gren.

If atomic power plants can be made with hydro-electric power from the Peace it could be a valuable enterprise for both Canada and the seven big British companies now interested in producing electric power. But obviously Wenner-Gren should have no finger in the thing.

Is it likely that seven huge British companies visibly capable of financing, constructing and carrying through projects bigger than this Peace project, would be setting out to spend more than $200,000,000 to produce hydro-electric power to process uranium to make atomic power plants, without having assurance of a supply of uranium? It's screwy! We need more information.

May I suggest to Mr. George and Mr. Finlayson that it may be unwise to adopt a policy of generalized opposition without adequate reliable information. Why not find out exactly what there is in this thing that needs opposing, and clearly oppose that?

Lord Tweedsmuir, who has succeeded Lord Alexander as the leader of the British interests, has never been asked to explain to us what these British are up to. This has been a strange omission by the B.C. newspapers; but if they will not do it, the leader of the Progressive Conservative Party and his candidates could do it. I suggest that Mr. Finlayson and Mr. George cable Lord Tweedsmuir these two questions for a start: (1) Is it true that PRPD Co. intends to make atomic power plants with Peace power? (2) Would this involve also processing uranium?

What Type of Offspring?

On page 30 of Aug. 4 issue of your paper I note an item captioned "Effective Machine" which, in detail voices the opinion of B.C. Federation of Labor president, William Black which assured the provincial CCF convention that his organization will be prepared to provide an effective political machine and take all steps "to gain control of the legislature."

With the experience of the past 10 or 12 years of labor unions' actions and fully cognizant of the problems which still face Canada, nationally and internationally, I am confident I voice the opinion and desires of the majority of good state citizens that Canada cannot afford to have that element at the helm of governmental policies. The time has come for the common people to have some consideration before it is too late.

I would ask the question: What type of offspring can one anticipate from such an alliance as the CCF and labor union leaders, one making bullets for the other to shoot?

Background In Tibet

By William H. Newell, tutor in anthropology with the University of Manchester.

IT is not widely realized that the religious and political boundaries of Tibet are not identical. Within the 380,000 square miles of Tibet controlled by the Dalai Lama and his governors there are almost certainly fewer than two million Tibetans and probably not more than a million.

But if one includes those supporters of the lamaist faith living outside the present boundaries of Tibet, in Bhutan, Sikkim, Kashmir, and the Chinese provinces of Sikkang, Singkiang and Mongolia, but who owe religious allegiance to the Dalai Lama and the Panchen Lama, then the number of faithful is probably nearer four million.

Thus the majority of supporters of the lamaist faith live outside the boundaries of modern Tibet under the political control of other countries, especially China.

Prepared to Sign

This explains why the Tibetans were prepared to sign a treaty with China after the invasion of Tibet, which appeared to be so unequal to the outside world.

The lamaist religion is based upon the establishment of monasteries to which a certain proportion of local villagers have been admitted as monks. The monasteries are also important as a store of wealth against bad seasons, as a military establishment to which villagers can retire in time of war, and as centres of learning by which villagers can attain high rank in the State and in religion.

Little administrative control exists between one monastery and the other, and, like religious organizations in the West, the success or failure of the monastery depends upon the character of the monks and the degree of local support for the order.

The followers of the faith inside and outside Tibet are linked together by a common spiritual allegiance to the Panchen Lama and the Dalai Lama.

No Political Power

The relative importance of these two dignitaries has varied in different periods of Tibetan history, but at the present time the power of the Panchen Lama is probably weaker as he has been brought up by Chinese in Chinese territory and has no political power to accompany his spiritual eminence.

Although the religious leaders of Tibetan Buddhism wish for a political power to accompany their spiritual power, their success or failure as religious leaders does not depend on their control of a state. The nearest parallel is perhaps the Pope, whose importance does not rest on the area of land he controls in the Vatican.

The Chinese attitude toward Tibet is clear. This is that Tibet is politically part of China as a result of military conquest in the past and that it is only because of the difficulties that China has been prone to in the last 50 years that Tibet has become independent.

This independence has been encouraged by imperialist intrigues, especially by Britain. This view is held as much by the Kuomintang in Formosa as by the Communists. The Tibetan attitude is that large numbers of supporters of the lamaist faith live in the confines of the Chinese Empire and that it is of importance to the supremacy of Lhasa as a religious centre that there should always be peaceful relations between China and the Dalai Lama.

Integrity Threatened

Thus as long as the Dalai Lama's spiritual integrity remains unaffected the Chinese and Tibetans may co-operate. This integrity was threatened by his reported attempted arrest by the Chinese.

To look upon the present difficulties of the Chinese governments in Tibet as merely the difficulties of controlling a backward people would be to oversimplify the situation. It is essentially a religious problem.

The traditional exporter of religious ideas to Tibet has been India; China has been the exporter of political control. But the Chinese Communist government seems to have failed to gain the allegiance of even the minimum number of Tibetans necessary to set up a semi-autonomous republic, as they have succeeded in doing in other parts of China with their minorities.

There is no mention of Tibet in the last Five-Year Plan, published by the Chinese last year, other than a statement that nothing is to be done within those five years.

Strong Opposition

The truth of the matter appears to be that in spite of the strong economic ties joining Tibet to China the characteristics of the Chinese and Tibetans are very much opposed.

Robert K. Ekvall, the son of a missionary among Tibetans, who spoke perfect Tibetan and Chinese from birth and who intervened as middleman in many disputes between the two races, gives many examples of the difference in attitude in his book "Tibetan Sky-lines" (published in 1952) and in his earlier works.

While the Chinese despise the Tibetans for their barbarism and disorganized habits, the Tibetans in their turn resent the intolerance of the Chinese and their superiority about their own civilization. "Great Han chauvinism," as Mao Tse-tung calls it, does not die out just because the Chinese become Communists.

FOREIGNER

Membership of one group makes us foreigners in another. Though it may be a truism, it is nevertheless important to stress that always the fact of "belonging" as against being a foreigner, defines membership of one group in opposition to some other group.

Oh, To Be in England!

LONDON—Some of the letters I get here, for instance, is Mrs. Alice MacKellar of Toronto's Thornton Avenue. "We would appreciate your assistance. Four of us are coming to Britain for a vacation. Could you let us know of something of interest to do on Friday, June 12...?"

Well, I don't know how precise I can be about Friday, June 12, but I do know I've had several letters on this line. Reader G. Ryrie wrote to say I had once before written advice to tourists outside the scope of conventional guide books, would I please do the same sort of thing again. So...

First and foremost, as soon as you arrive in London buy a copy of the weekly magazine. What's On—all details there of every form of entertainment indoors and outdoors in London and environs.

Can we go to afternoon tea at the Dorchester Hotel, Mrs. MacKellar asks me. Certainly. Go to any of the plushier hotels for tea—Dorchester, Ritz, Grosvenor House, Claridge's. You can hobnob there with titled folks and celebrities, and be surprised that you can come out with change from a dollar!

Also a place for lunch or dinner where you'll see lots of famous people is the Ivy Restaurant. Haunt of theatricals—Vivien Leigh, Lauren Bacall and Kay Kendall have been a regular threesome there lately.

Just across the road from Canada House you can have lunch with the effigy of Sherlock Holmes in a replica of his Baker Street flat.

Shows I would recommend? For a traditional English thriller—Agatha Christie's six year-running, Mousetrap. For a good old-fashioned, broad-minded English revue—the Crazy Gang in Clown Jewels. For the new type of English realism play—A Taste of Honey, which you'll find won't have such a sweet taste, but it's today's trend.

And do go to the Festival Hall. It's an adventure to see such an advanced concert hall. Even if you don't like symphony, top price seats are only $2, so you can leave early and not be much out of pocket.

Shopping? Harrods, a beautiful store, but pricey because you pay for the wall-to-wall carpeting and other elegance. Selfridge's for an English equivalent of Eaton's. Fortnum and Mason for the strange experience of being able to buy exotic things like chocolate-coated ants. Marks and Spencer's chain stores for amazing bargains in good women's twin sets and men's sweaters.

Regent's Park—far away London's best, with archery, cricket, tennis, yachting, bird sanctuary, tea on the lawns, a zoo, superb rose garden, open-air Shakespeare Theatre, Barbara Hutton's former mansion and Tussaud's Waxworks and planetarium at the entrance to the park.

And nearby, see a real English "local"—our pub, the Princess Royal in St. John's Wood, where you can sit with families and their youngsters under colored umbrellas on the sidewalk patio. If I don't happen to be there, make yourself known to the publican or his wife and they'll make you feel at home.

Nervous 'Fever'

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

There is no question that many nervous people, or tense people, get some fever when they are anxious. I remember a very tense and anxious woman who used to get a fever of 102.5 degrees whenever she came into my office. After chatting with me a while, and calming down, she would lose her "fever." I remember a study made in the army years ago, in which it was found that soldiers, when playing cards, could get a fever due to their excitement. Their temperature would go up 1.5 degrees F. A professor of physiology found that when his daughters went out to a movie in the evening, he could always tell, when they came back, whether the movie was exciting or not. If it was exciting, they had a slight fever.

Alvarez

Recently, Drs. K. L. White and W. N. Long, Jr., of the North Carolina Memorial Hospital reported cases in which many patients had what looked like a fever, but when studied, it appeared to be due only to nervous tension. I remember a woman who ran a fever of 101.5 degrees or so for over a year after she contracted an unhappy and unfortunate marriage. Another ran a fever for four years after she married unhappily. She lost this fever the day she decided to divorce her husband.

I can remember very anxious patients who greatly feared an operation and who developed a fever of 102 degrees or so every time they were taken up to the operating room. A while ago I commented in this column on some patients I had seen whose fever—sometimes up to 104 degrees—was due purely to a violent tantrum, due to a slight tendency to epilepsy.

General Vetoes Troop Pullback

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Gen. Lauris Norstad Tuesday firmly opposed any pullback of troops along the Iron Curtain unless Russia agreed in writing—and "bold print"—to an adequate inspection system.

Norstad, Allied commander in Europe, said he would fight any move that would cut down the "very real strength" which North Atlantic Treaty forces had built up over the past 10 years if there was nothing more than a "hope of something better."

Goodwill Tour To Be Returned By Oregonians

By PETE LOUDON
Times Staff Reporter

SALEM, Ore.—Boy Scout Mark Hatfield who visited Victoria in 1935 to see the Prince of Wales will be going there again "in about two weeks," this time as governor of Oregon State.

The governor, now 36, made this a promise to a Victoria Chamber of Commerce trade group goodwill tour which reached here Tuesday.

Victoria will be a main stopping point for Gov. Hatfield during a vacation which will follow prorogation of the state legislative session now in its 86th day.

MONEY TO SPEND
He said he and his bride of 11 months will shop for antique furnishings for a home they are now renovating.

Earlier, the Salem Chamber of Commerce promised the Victoria group they would return the goodwill visit later this month, a decision they reached after viewing movies of Vancouver Island.

Victoria Alderman Geoff. Edgelow made a belated pitch to unload his city's notorious centennial balloons, but was told Salem has already completed plans for its 1959 centennial celebrations.

Experts to Map Out Formula on Herring

A two-man committee has been established to work out the best management practices and procedures for the B.C. herring industry.

Known as the B.C. Herring Management Committee, it will be composed of A. J. Whitmore, area director, department of fisheries, Vancouver, and Dr. A. W. H. Needler, director, Fisheries Research Board of Canada, biological station at Nanaimo.

Members of fishermen's and trade organizations will advise on herring management problems.

LONG-RANGE
The new committee will be similar to that set up in connection with the Skeena River salmon fishery. Its job will be to improve herring management, particularly by research, and to circulate knowledge gained.

Larger Fishing Fleets Threat to Conservation

OTTAWA (CP)—The Fisheries Council of Canada has been told that plans by Russia and Japan to double their catches in the next few years are a "real challenge" to world fish conservation efforts.

Dr. J. L. Kask, chairman of the Federal Fisheries Research Board, told the council's annual meeting Tuesday that if these bigger fleets operate on known fishing grounds and in areas where fish stocks are being depleted, "the problem of conservation will be much more critical than in the past."

Dr. Kask said that this year about 24 big Russian vessels of up to 4,000 tons—vessels having a "terrific fishing potential"—are expected to operate on the Grand Banks off Newfoundland. Last year there were eight Russian vessels on the banks.

In the next 10 years world population would increase at a rate to produce 1,000,000,000 more fish eaters. This stressed the importance of conserving existing fish stocks. when you look into the future, said C. Gordon O'Brien, manager of the fisheries council.

Dip Into Account Kept Deficit Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Fleming's deficit in the last fiscal year would have been $828,400,000 instead of $616,600,000 if he had not drawn every last dollar out of a special defence account.

This was indicated today in the pre-budget white paper, giving a preliminary accounting by the federal government of the 1958-59 year ended March 31.

The document said the year's deficit, based strictly on budgetary accounting, was an estimated $616,600,000.

But Mr. Fleming—as he had announced in his budget speech last June 17—liquidated the balance remaining in the special defence equipment account. That provided $211,800,000 for defence expenditures that did not have to be accounted for in budget bookkeeping on which the official figure is based.

The special account, which has existed for several years, was a bookkeeping device whose balance had been built up before 1956 by crediting to it the estimated value of equipment and supplies given to NATO partners under mutual aid.

The $211,800,000 charged against the account during 1958-59 in winding it up compares with $24,000,000 the previous year.

The strictly budget accounts show a whopping drop of $250,200,000 from $1,687,400,000 in the previous 1957-58 year. But when the special equipment amount and two other non-budget accounts are counted in, actual cash outlays for defence fell by $38,600,000 to $1,648,800,000 from $1,687,400,000.

Defence still takes by far the largest share of government expenditures.

Last year defence accounted for almost 27 per cent of budgetary spending—compared with 33 per cent the previous year, 37 per cent in 1956-57 and 40 per cent in 1955-56.

Budgetary spending on the armed services themselves dropped by $229,200,000 to $1,172,200,000. The outlay for army services was $370,100,000, for naval services $208,800,000, and for air services $593,300,000.

OLD AGE PENSION FUND $184 MILLION IN RED

OTTAWA (CP) — The old age pension fund went into the red by $184,000,000 in the fiscal year just ended—an all-time high.

This was an increase of $81,600,000 over the deficit for the previous year.

Finance Minister Fleming estimated last year's revenue to cover the $55-a-month pension to all those 70 and over at $376,000,000. Pension outlays were $560,000,000.

Jobless Fund Takes $242 Million Plunge

OTTAWA (CP)—Heavy demands by jobless have driven the unemployment insurance fund down to $512,600,000, the government reported today.

Finance Minister Fleming told Parliament that at the March 31 end of the fiscal year the fund stood at this amount, compared with more than $900,000,000 two years ago.

During the fiscal year, the fund dwindled by $242,200,000 from $754,800,000 as benefit payments of $483,000,000 to unemployed far outweighed government - employer - employee contributions of $220,000,000 and other fund revenue.

Benefits during the year were $98,000,000 higher than in the 1957-58 fiscal year.

Canada Loans To Far East Building Up

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has been building up its foreign loans in the Far East as Western countries pay off postwar debts to Canada.

Loans to finance wheat and flour sales to south and south-east Asia increased by $18,800,000 during the 1958-59 fiscal year.

During the year ended March 31, the U.K. paid off $38,600,000, reducing its debt to $1,080,500,000.

Debts owed by Belgium, France, The Netherlands and Norway were reduced by $18,000,000 to a total $285,700,000.

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Oklahoma's sudden thirst for legal liquor after 31 years of prohibition will have to wait three more months before it is quenched, despite a record repeal vote. Prohibition will remain in effect until the new laws are written into its books.

Repeal carried by more than 80,000 votes Tuesday, ending prohibition that went into the constitution when Oklahoma became a state in 1907. It left Mississippi the only legally dry state in the union.

'WELL CONSIDERED AND CORRECT'

Adenauer Defends New Move

BONN, West Germany (Reuters)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today he decided to run for president to ensure the continuity of West German policy for years ahead.

In a broadcast to the nation Adenauer said his decision Tuesday to run was "quickly made but well considered and correct."

The 83-year-old "iron chancellor" said the post of West German president was a much greater one than people believed. The government's attitude in foreign policy questions would not change by one iota, either during the present period of conferences or during the coming few years.

Observers here speculated that a more flexible West German attitude toward talks with Russia would follow Adenauer's surprise decision to give up the policymaking office he had held for nearly 10 years.

Adenauer referred to his decision to run for president at the end of his 10-minute speech.

ATTACKS STRONGER
Immediately before this he referred to British attacks on himself, saying they were "being made ever more strongly."

He said that in general he was in agreement with French President de Gaulle's views on a so-called zone of relaxed tension.

De Gaulle said March 25 that there would be a point in creating such a zone only if disarmament were carried out between the Atlantic and the Urals.

Adenauer said "the British attacks against de Gaulle, arising from certain differences of opinion, are keeping, I believe, within moderate limits."

"Only against us, and especially against me, are these attacks being made ever more strongly."

BUT ONLY THE TALENTED NEED APPLY AT ROYAL ROADS

86 Young Men Passing Up Super Bargain

BY MONTE ROBERTS

Eighty-six young Canadian men are missing an opportunity to enjoy, absolutely free of charge, four years college education leading to a liberal arts or science degree.

They are also missing four years of free room, free board, free clothing, a railway ticket home at Christmas time plus $25 spending money.

Finally, they are missing $65 a month and an early start on one of the finest pension plans in Canada.

This odd situation was explained Tuesday at the Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, by the commandant, Col. P. S. Cooper.

Royal Roads, one of the three services colleges in Canada operating under the Regular Officer Training plan, has the staff and facilities to take care of 220 cadets.

As of now, only 134 are enrolled.

One of the reasons, Col. Cooper pointed out, is the keen competition for the brighter students.

"Business and professions are seeking out the honor student," he said.

SCHOLARSHIP

Prof. C. C. Cook, director of studies at the college, said that more and more scholarships are becoming available to the type of student sought by the Canadian services.

Another reason for the small enrolment lies in the stiff requirements under the Regular Officer training plan.

Scholastic qualifications are designed to aim for not more than 20 per cent failures among the cadets, and in recent years this objective has been reached. At the present time, to bring enrolment up to 220, some students with a 50 per cent failure would have to be enrolled.

"This would be a poor investment, considering the cost of training a cadet," Prof. Cook stated. "In addition, the poorer students would hold back the others."

But both Prof. Cook and Col. Cooper felt that ROTP offers just about the best education available in Canada.

The training plan, instituted in 1928, is designed to fit young men to become officers. Those accepted for training select which of the three service arms they prefer, and are enlisted upon reporting to the college.

STRESS ON SCIENCE

They commit themselves to completing the four-year college course, which emphasizes science subjects but devotes ample time to the humanities.

The cadets also agree to serve for three years in the forces after graduation.

During their first year, they have the opportunity of switching from one service to another, or of withdrawing altogether.

Actually, about 70 per cent of those enrolled in the initial ROTP plan 10 years ago are still in the forces as commissioned officers. Only the first two years are taught at Royal Roads, the final two years of the course being taken at Royal Military College at Kingston.

IWA Stabilized Logging in B.C.

A top official of the International Woodworkers of America in Victoria today took issue with a Newfoundland lumber company executive who claimed "the IWA has put the B.C. lumber industry out of business."

"The man is obviously a fool," retorted Jack MacKenzie, president of IWA Local 1-118. "It is plain he is not familiar with the B.C. picture. The IWA has actually helped the lumber industry in this province."

He was replying to Albert Martin, general manager of Bowater's pulp and paper mills in Newfoundland.

Mr. Martin said Tuesday his company tried to frustrate the IWA "every way we could."

"The IWA has put the British Columbia lumber industry out of business and I am implacably opposed to it because I fear it would do the same to Newfoundland logging."

But Mr. MacKenzie said the IWA in B.C. had "helped stabilize" logging in the province and turned it into "a healthy operation."

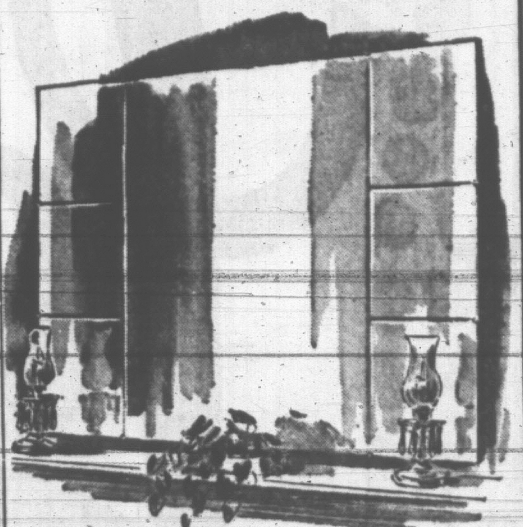

"The truth of the matter is that the Anglo-Newfoundland Co. and Bowater's, not the IWA, control logging in Newfoundland."

If they were paying taxes, as they should be, and paying their employees decent wages so they in turn could pay taxes, then the rest of Canada would not have to subsidize that province."

Boy 16, Gets Life Term

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A 16-year-old boy Tuesday was found guilty of first-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment for the fatal street beating of In Ho Oh, a Korean university student, several months ago.

George Clark was the second youth to get a life term. One other has been sentenced to death in the electric chair and another received a 10-to-20-year prison term.

Seven more of the 11 Negro youths charged are awaiting trial.

HOWARD GREEN
... makes charge

Liberals 'Packed' Housing Agency

OTTAWA (CP)—A dispute between the federal and Newfoundland governments over the membership of the St. John's Housing Authority was brought to the floor of the Commons Tuesday.

Works Minister Green said the Newfoundland Liberal government "filled the authority with its own appointees," and did not consult with the federal government on the appointments.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said in the provincial legislature last week that his government refused a federal request to replace the authority's members with Progressive Conservative supporters.

He said his government would sue the federal works department and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation

Union Spirit 'Violated'

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said Tuesday night the conditions of Term 29 in the Canadian-Newfoundland Confederation agreement should last "as long as water runs wet and grass grows green."

The Canadian government may have been under no obligation to accept the recommendations of the McNair royal commission, Mr. Smallwood said, but failure to do so was a violation of the spirit of the terms of union.

Mr. Smallwood made his comments during the CBC half-hour television program Press Conference.

NEWFOUNDLAND HOUSING

Minister 'Lied' Says Smallwood

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland said Tuesday night that if Works Minister Green has alleged that the Newfoundland government allocated federally subsidized housing on a political basis he told a "down-right lie."

He said further that William J. Broome, minister without portfolio in the federal Progressive Conservative cabinet, is the largest property owner in St. John's slum section.

Mr. Smallwood made his statements in a brief interview after arriving for a two-day visit.

Earlier, Mr. Green said in a Commons statement that the Crown housing agency, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, will administer two new federal provincial projects in St. John's.

Tenants are being chosen entirely on the basis of need, which I am afraid was not the case when the provincial government was administering them," he said.

The Canadian Cancer Society was organized in 1938 at the request of the Canadian Medical Association. One of its main functions is to teach Canadians that early diagnosis of cancer depends on the early reporting of suspicious symptoms to a doctor. It also supports cancer research and gives assistance to cancer patients.

for breach of contract because the federal housing agency has retained administration of 192 housing units built in St. John's by federal provincial agreement and financing.

Mr. Green said the practice in other provinces participating in federally assisted housing developments has been to consult with the federal government, and in some cases with the municipalities concerned, before making appointments to housing authorities.

These authorities administer low-rental housing developments built under federal-provincial cost-sharing agreements by which Ottawa foots 75 per cent of the bill.

He said such consultation was not made in the case of the St. John's Housing Authority, appointed in 1951. The administration of the body had not been satisfactory.

He said he wrote three letters to Mr. Smallwood—on Aug. 25 and Oct. 2, 1958, and on Feb. 10, 1959—asking the provincial government's cooperation in the appointment of authority members.

He said he received no reply to the letters, which he tabled in the Commons.

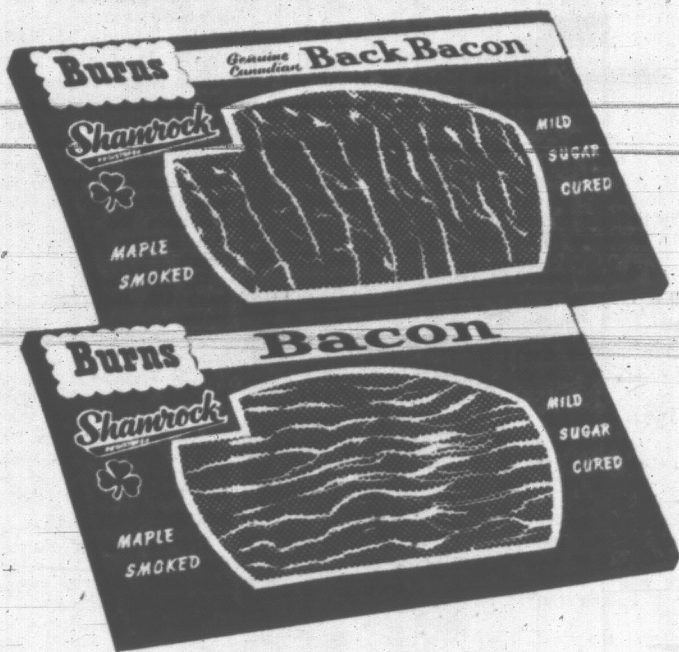

Mr. Green, who made his statement in reply to questions by Hubert Badanal (L-Fort William) and James McGrath (PC-St. John's East), said the federal government has been accused of "playing politics in the allotment of housing for poor people."

"The shoe is on the other foot," he said, apparently referring to the provincial government.

'Outlaws' Threaten B.C. Soccer

VANCOUVER (CP).—The British Columbia Soccer Commission will meet with directors of the Pacific Coast Soccer League to discuss new player-signing regulations. The meeting was precipitated by reports of a formation of an outlaw league and a return to all-winter football in protest against the new regulations.

The new PCSL season is scheduled to open in 10 days. The signing legislation introduced by the commission and sanctioned by the Canadian Soccer Football Association at its annual meeting in Edmonton binds a player to one club coast for the entire year.

It prevents players from taking part in year-round soccer and allows more players to take an active part in soccer.

Main opposition to the new ruling stems from first division clubs of the Mainland League who stand to lose many of their players to the senior Pacific Coast League.

Willi Weathered Storm, But Lost

DENVER, Colo. (AP).—Zora Foley, third-ranked heavyweight contender, ripped and slashed Willi Besmanoff for a 10-round unanimous decision Tuesday night. Foley weighed 194, Besmanoff 198.

Besmanoff, German-born veteran of 74 bouts, withstood a vicious closing attack that sent him reeling in the final 30 seconds. There were no knockdowns.

Bisons Gain Final Edge Amerks, 3-2

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI).—The Buffalo Bisons today girded for the championship flight of the American Hockey League Calder Cup playoffs after making good on general manager-coach Fred Hunt's prediction to eliminate Rochester in five semi-final games.

Buffalo vaulted into the finals for the first time since 1955 with a 3-2 verdict over the invading Americans last night and captured the best-of-seven semi-final series, 4-1.

An elated Hunt was a bit wary this time about calling the length of the playoff round but insisted "we'll win the Calder Cup, whether it's Cleveland or Hershey. But let's wait Picked to finish sixth in the American League race, Paul Richards' upstarts wound up with the best record among all major league teams in the spring exhibition standings.

The training season doesn't officially end until today but the Orioles clinched the combined Grapefruit-Cactus League championship Tuesday by downing the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3, with the help of a grand-slam homer by Gus Triandos.

The Orioles, who open the American League season at Washington, Thursday, completed their spring tuneups with 16 victories in 24 outings for a .667 percentage.

Los Angeles Dodgers can wind up with the best training record among National League teams by beating the Milwaukee Braves tonight in their final prep at Jacksonville, Fla. They dropped a 5-4 verdict to the Braves in the same city last night and now have a 12-9 spring record against major league opposition.

TRIANDOS HOMERS

Biggest flops of the exhibition season were the New York Yankees and the Braves—last year's world series rivals. Going into today's final tuneups the Yankees had a 14-12 record and the Braves were stumbling along with a 10-15 mark.

Only 2,018 fans turned out at Baltimore to watch the Orioles turn back the Phillies with a five-run burst off Ruben Gomez in the first inning. Successive singles by Willie Tasby, Bob Boyd, Bobby Avila and Gene Woodling produced the first run, then Triandos cleaned the bases with a homer into the left field bleachers.

Hank Aaron's two-run single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning enabled the Braves to down the Dodgers before an overflow crowd of 12,203 at Jacksonville. Los Angeles scored all its runs off Bob Buhl in the opening frame.

SOX MISS CHANCE

The Boston Red Sox blew their last chance to catch the Orioles in the exhibition standings when they dropped an 11-inning 8-7 verdict to the Chicago Cubs at Victoria, Tex. The Cincinnati Reds edged the Yankees, 3-2, on a lead-off homer by Gus Bell in the 10th inning and Jim Bolger's pinch single in the ninth inning carried the Cleveland Indians to a 3-2 triumph over the San Francisco Giants in Tuesday's other exhibitions.

The Yankees, playing before 8,432 at Savannah, Ga., opened a 2-1 lead in the sixth inning on a two-run homer by Yogi Berra but the Reds tied the score in the eighth on a walk and singles by Frank Robinson and Del Ennis. Bell's game-winning homer came off Yankee rookie Ed Dick.

until we know who it is before making any more predictions." Cleveland and Hershey are deadlocked at two victories each in their semi-final series.

A crowd of 7,152 watched the Bisons dominate play for 53 minutes before Rochester caught fire and tallied two quick goals in the third period. Time ran out, however, as the Americans fought to gain the tying goal.

Gerry Foley, Eddie Kachur and Dick Gamble were the Buffalo marksmen. Terry Gray opened the scoring against Marcel Paille with 13.39 gone in the final stanza and Guy Rousseau clicked with the second Rochester goal nearly three minutes later.

HO HUM

Stifling yawn while watching his New York Yankees lose another spring training game, Casey Stengel isn't worried. Yankee manager is confident he has talent to win another American League crown. Another major league season starts Thursday with traditional openers at Washington and Cincinnati. Casey's boys start playing for keeps Friday. (NEA).

BRITONS SKEPTICAL

Title Battle Still Doubtful

NEW YORK (AP).—Promoter Cecil Rhodes Jr. and his entourage met with network officials today to iron out differences that have arisen over switching the Floyd Patterson-Brian London heavyweight championship fight from Las Vegas to Indianapolis.

The NBC was annoyed at Rhodes and Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, for the sudden change in sites of the May 1 bout.

"We've agreed on terms," said Tom Gallery, NBC's sports director. "But we haven't signed any new contracts yet. We'd better settle the whole thing today or it will blow up."

"D'Amato has no idea of the television business. For instance, we are blacking out the area of the fight. In Las Vegas, that would mean some where between 5,000 and 10,000 sets. But there must be at least 400,000 sets around Indianapolis."

ASKED TO TAKE CUT

Rhodes, taking the whole thing calmly, said NBC had asked him to take a $25,000 cut in the original $225,000 TV fee.

"That will be straightened out," he said, adding, "As soon as we get all the details straightened out, we're going to send for London."

London said in London he has his bags packed and is waiting for a trans-Atlantic call. He has incurred the wrath of the British Board of Boxing Control which refused to sanction the fight.

The shifting of the date and site, the lack of official notice and the refusal of the British Boxing Board of Control to approve London for the fight, has built up a question mark in many Britons' minds.

"I have come to the viewpoint," said fight writer Desmond Hackett in The Daily Express, "that I will believe this Patterson-London fight when I see it."

Curlers Start Firing In City 'Spiel' Tonight

CURLING DRAW

The seventh annual Victoria Curling Club bonspiel, which will get rolling tonight, has taken on all the flavor of a provincial event.

A bumper total of 66 rinks are entered in competition for the featured Dominion Hotel and Colonist primary awards.

Forty-nine of the rinks will be representing the host rink with 17 others coming from other provincial centres.

Duncan will ice three quartets and Vancouver, Nanaimo, Courtenay and Campbell River have each entered two. Single foursomes will represent Chilliwack, Kelowna, Port Alberni, Ladysmith, Parksville and Ashcroft.

Secondary Eaton's and Ker & Stephenson Trophy events will start Saturday with finals all scheduled for Sunday.

A break in the curling will be provided the contestants Saturday evening with a banquet starting at 5 p.m. Play will resume again at 8 p.m.

Navy Golfers Open Season

The Royal Canadian Navy Golf Association will open its 1959 season Thursday with an inter-ship tourney at Gorge Vale Golf Club. Post entries will be accepted.

The draw follows:
12-15—E. Woodward, F. Barron, G. Buckingham, H. Ebeling.
16-19—G. Fox, F. Pettit, T. Langios, C. Bergeron.
20-23—C. Mann, T. Plume, W. Coombs, G. Aylesworth.

THE WATERFRONT: REFIT, REPAIRS, A TOUCH OF NOSTALGIA

Refit, repairs, and prelude to restoration made Victoria's Inner Harbor a busy and colorful scene today. Largest privately-owned salvage vessel on west coast, Island Tug & Barge Co.'s Sudbury II, is nearing end of extensive refit which includes new bridge deck (shown at left) and giant towing winch with 3,300 feet of wire. Big sea-going tug will be ready for deep-sea tow jobs early in May. Repairs to Johnson Street Bridge, damaged in tug accident last Friday, began in earnest today with fabrication of scaffolding to be slung under bridge to replace damaged 40-foot girder. And work is to be started soon on historic California river boat Delta King, berthed at Point Hope Shipyards where Island tug will prepare it for long tow to Stockton, where it will be restored to old-time glory as tourist attraction after serving as bunkhouse at Kitimat. Delta King will be in harbor here for two weeks while windows are boarded over. (Times Photos by Halkett and Strickland.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been studying on the traffic problem and especially the roundabout.

As you know, the traffic problem has become considerably more problematic since the Johnson Street bridge went out of service due to circumstances entirely beyond its control.

Since then, all the traffic which used to go over the Johnson Street bridge goes over the Point Ellice bridge, and 99 per cent of it seems to find its way into the roundabout.

This is why I have been studying on the traffic problem and especially the roundabout.

The roundabout, as is well known to all natives, was designed by the tourist bureau in a fit of flimsy humor.

Now, during the tourist season, the natives gather around the roundabout and howl with laughter as the poor bewildered tourists drive around it the wrong way.

As the roundabout now stands, it is fairly confusing and considerably amusing.

But my studies have convinced me there is room for improvement.

The trouble with the roundabout is, it doesn't go roundabout.

Perhaps that isn't quite clear. What I mean is, the roundabout is round, but it doesn't GO round.

It should be constructed like a merry-go-round.

Motorists would then have the pleasure of a free ride to repay them for their courage in entering the roundabout in the first place.

Motorists who catch the brass ring would be entitled to one free parking ticket.

And the tourists, instead of sinking home shame faced after being laughed at by the natives, would go home singing the praises of this outstanding traffic attraction.

Let us, by all means, mobilize the roundabout.

Motorcyclist Injures Leg In Car Crash

Motorcyclist Frederick Roesner, 28, of 325 Michigan, was treated for leg abrasions and discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after his bike was in collision with a car driven by Frederick Lackner, 845 Balmoral, making a turn into a driveway from Douglas.

Police said Roesner was thrown from his machine as he rode on Herald and was in collision with a car driven by Frederick Lackner, 845 Balmoral, making a turn into a driveway from Douglas.

There were no injuries in a three-car collision which temporarily tied up rush-hour traffic over Point Ellice Bridge at 7:45 a.m.

The cars crashed in the middle of the span, which has carried capacity traffic on Bay Street since Johnson Street Bridge went out of commission in a marine accident Friday.

Porch Climb Brings Fine, For 'Romeo'

Twenty-year-old naval rating Gerald A. Stuart was "ticked off" and fined $100 in city police court today for climbing a 14-foot balcony to a sleeping girl's bedroom last week.

Stuart pleaded guilty to a charge of prowling by night at 1:30 a.m. April 2. Police caught him after he tried to get into the room of Henrietta Southwell, 1152 Burdette, by climbing onto a balcony to her window.

He had told Magistrate William Ostler he was on his way home and "just dropped in" to see a friend.

The magistrate told Stuart it was fortunate the girl awoke and that he went away at her insistence because that was the only thing in his favor according to a probation report.

"IRRESPONSIBLE"

The report indicated a "pattern of irresponsibility" and was "far from satisfactory," Magistrate Ostler noted.

"It was certainly a silly thing to do, but also a criminal offence. If you get into court again you will have no reason to expect lenient treatment," granted this time in view of Stuart's age, the court said.

Magistrate Ostler noted a previous offence against Stuart's record was for taking a municipal bus without consent at Prince Rupert recently.

BLANSHARD WIDENING PROPOSED

Widening of Blanshard between Memorial Arena and Hillside was recommended today by city public works committee.

Present 60-foot width would be increased to 90 feet to increase traffic capacity of the street when it is extended to the Patricia Bay Highway as recommended in the Capital Region Planning Board's master plan.

The committee asked city council to approve the widening in principle and change zoning regulations as required.

Immediate zoning changes were requested to cover the Pembroke-Blanshard intersection.

A plan for the widening designed to eliminate need for drastic alterations to substantial buildings on the street has been worked out by the city engineer's department.

Drama Groups 'Polishing' For Festival

With exactly a week to go before opening night of the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival, theatre groups in the Greater Victoria area have entered the final feverish stage of polishing, dress rehearsals, rounding up of furniture and properties, and all the multiple details that even a one-act play production involves.

The festival will take place at Oak Bay Junior High School, April 15 to 18.

Competing for benefit of adjudication from mainland drama specialist Antony Holland, and for one of three places on the Saturday night honor program, will be St. Luke's Players with two entries, Fireside Theatre with two, Columbia Players, Victoria Theatre Guild, Peninsula Players of Sidney, Intimate Stage, Royal Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Drama Club and St. Andrew's Cathedral Players.

Only project remaining in the yard after April will be outfitting of the ice-breaker Camell, due to be turned over to the federal government in September.

BOOKWORM READS IN COURT

'The Mature Mind' Gets Brainwashing

The bespectacled young man charged with careless driving sat reading a book, waiting for his name to be called in Saanich police court Tuesday.

Alex Ringstad, 2795 Beach, pleaded guilty, was fined $40 and his driver's licence was suspended.

Police said Ringstad's car was paced at 80 miles an hour in a 30 zone on Douglas, where in the course of the pace it passed other cars on both right and left sides.

Magistrate William Ostler admonished Ringstad for such behavior, especially with the traffic normally expected at 6:15 p.m.

The young man said there hadn't been much traffic, and besides, he thought it was a 50-mile-an-hour zone.

He left the court, was reminded by a constable on the way out he had forgotten his book, then came back to request time to pay the fine, which was granted.

Five minutes later he was back again, to pick up the book from the court officer's table.

'Biggest Yet' Bingo Planned by Kinsmen

Barge Mishap Provides Jobs At City Yard

True to the ill wind that blows no good, recent Up-Island grounding of a Powell River Co. barge will provide jobs for 100 men for six weeks at the Yarrow's shipyard here.

The vessel is the self-dumping log-barge, Powell No. 1, which had her bottom ripped out when she went ashore in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Extensive repairs are required to the 3,730-ton, 342-foot barge.

BIGGER PAYROLL

Meanwhile, yard general manager John Wallace said today present 300-strong work force was more than 200 larger than the number of men employed at this time last year.

But he said there was "nothing in sight" for the yard after the end of April.

This month will see completion of two Yarrow's jobs. Installation of new boilers in the These are completion of installation of hydrographic survey ship William J. Stewart, and conversion and annual overhaul to HMCS Stettler.

Only project remaining in the yard after April will be outfitting of the ice-breaker Camell, due to be turned over to the federal government in September.

Prizes valued at $11,000—the highest yet—will be awarded at the 14th Giant Bingo Game promoted by Victoria Kinsmen's Club at the Memorial Arena Monday, April 27, at 7:45 p.m.

More than 101,000 attended the previous 13 games at which prizes totalling more than $140,000 were won. The average number turned away at each game, due to lack of space, was around 1,500.

Local charities have received donations exceeding $50,000 since the games were started.

GORGE PARK

Proceeds of the 14th game will go to the development of recreational facilities at Kinsmen Gorge Park.

More than 2,500 tickets have already been sold since sales opened at Eaton's store last Friday.

Persons buying tickets between then and April 20 at 5:30 p.m. will be entitled to enter the "Dream of Dreams" vacation contest.

FIVE OF these tickets will be drawn during intermission and the holders will then play off for an all-expenses-paid vacation for two people to any city of their choice in North America.

This prize will include return tickets for two with hotel accommodation and $20 a day spending money for 10 days.

NEW CAR

Other prizes to be awarded in the 14 games will include: A $3,165 Dodge Regent Club sedan; a $339 Sylvania convertible TV portable; a $639 stereo radio-phonograph combination; a $429 automatic freezer refrigerator; $1,500 holiday boat with 18 horsepower motor trailer; $425 British Indian floral rug; $250 spring wardrobe; $195 five-piece kitchen chrome set; $198 movie camera, projector and screen; $200 complete gardeners' outfit; $425 do-it-yourself household kit.

COFFEE TABLES

Consolation prizes will include a number of $50 hand-carved mahogany coffee tables; $200 worth of groceries; and a number of $26 de luxe electric toasters.

"This is the biggest prize list we have offered yet and all prizes have been purchased from local merchants," said Jack Phillion, chairman of the Kinsmen's bingo game committee.

ACT EARLY

"All the previous bingo games we have held have been sell-outs, so those who want to attend should get their tickets soon."

Proceeds from the 14th game will go towards improving the swimming pool at Kinsmen Gorge Park, installing picnic benches and extra playground equipment.

WOMAN DRIVER BLAMES HUBBY FOR ACCIDENT

Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, was fined $35 in Saanich police court Tuesday for careless driving. And it was all her husband's fault.

"My husband was sitting with me," Mrs. Brown told the court, explaining how she pulled out of her driveway into the path of another car, causing a collision.

"He's supposed to watch out the right side, which he didn't do."

"Better not trust your husband. Look out yourself next time," Magistrate William Ostler advised.

New Work to Cut Party-Line Spats

A $500,000 two-year program to improve and enlarge service in Greater Victoria is being planned by B.C. Telephone Co., general manager W. S. Pipes said today.

It results from demand for better service by party-line subscribers in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, and new telephone applications from outlying areas.

Mr. Pipes said work had already started in Esquimalt, where a $100,000 cable project would reduce the number of subscribers on municipality lines.

Also, automatic telephone service had been inaugurated in Sidney and Keating, plus free calling between Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Sussexvale, Benson Hill, Antigonish, Ste. Therese on cadet training cruise, return 10:30 a.m. May 1.

Margaree returns 6:45 p.m. today.

New Glasgow returns Friday a.m.

Result will be announced at a special meeting in Vancouver Thursday of a vote taken by the National Association of Marine Engineers to decide whether the union will merge with the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Brotherhood executive secretary Fred Nicoll, of Ottawa, will be a main speaker.

City public works committee today recommended that council endorse the decision to give Victoria Machinery Depot a contract to make a replacement girder for Johnson Street bridge, closed since its main girder was sliced by a tug Friday.

Two United States destroyers on a reserve training cruise will visit Esquimalt this month, the navy announced today.

USS Watts and USS Laws will arrive at 1 p.m., April 24, and leave at 9 a.m., April 27.

A total of 26 officers and 325 men are in the two ships.

Vancouver Island Rabbit Breeders' Association will hold its monthly meeting at Strawberry Vale Women's Institute Hall, Wilkinson Road, next Friday at 8 p.m.

Victoria juveniles aged 10, 11 and 12 years were responsible for breaking into a Bay Street warehouse and causing about $300 damage to bagged cement and insulation at the weekend, city police said Tuesday.

Cement bags were slashed open with a knife and the insulation sacks burst by jumping on them. Office of the premises, operated at 409 Bay by Butler Bros. Ltd., was entered also, but nothing of value stolen, police said.

Two women passengers slightly hurt in a two-car collision at McRae and Service Streets in Saanich at 5:20 p.m. Tuesday were discharged from Jubilee Hospital after treatment.

Police identified them as Mrs. Margaret Rutter, 2849 Delatour, who was riding in a car driven by Charles Smith, 1328 Point, and Mrs. Margaret Birkett, 1949 Waterloo, passenger in a car driven by her husband, Robert.

City engineer James Garnett today told public works committee that his department gradually is painting Johnson Street bridge in aluminum. It not only improves the looks of the black bridge span but also reduces the temperature differential between seasons.

Admiring a pair of shoes she was trying on in a downtown store cost Mrs. Sidney G. Randall, 577 Brookleigh, her purse containing $30 cash, two bank books, driver's licence and a pair of glasses.

Mrs. Randall told city police at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday she put her purse on a chair and walked over to a mirror.

A thief stepped up to the chair, took the purse and disappeared.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Clothes Hanger, Lint Brush
All in One for Traveller

By PENNY SAVER

This little item leads a double life. It's main occupation is to be a shaped clothes hanger. Rounded ends to protect shoulders of fitted clothes, and flat, shaped arms, will help to make clothes hang well.

Double life comes when you fold this handy item up. Presto, it's a clothes brush! Bristles hang upside down, out of the way when article is being used as hanger.

Soap arms together and a practical, long-handled brush is ready and waiting to be used for flicking away unsightly lint and dust.

Made in France of attractive tortoise-shell plastic with natural colored bristles, one of these hangers would make a more than welcome gift for a traveller. Price? Just $1.

For those sweet primrose or pansy bouquets do you have a bowl that shows off their prettiness? English posy bowls of heavy muted marble glass are available with matching glass frogs to hold flowers in stands and show off your artistic bouquet. Complete set in lovely subdued marble colors to make a misty background for the brightness of the flowers is $1.25.

Large bowl, with frog and stand makes a stunning fruit or salad bowl when not used for flowers. Large set is $5.

Hand-painted Italian china is in town now. A salad bowl painted in sunny bright colors caught my eye. Many continental cooks maintain that a salad tastes best from a porcelain bowl. Any salad would certainly look attractive in this one. Wooden serving spoon and fork come with their porcelain handles to match bowl. Whole set is $5.

Gaily painted serving plates with hand-shaped round depressions around the edge for devilled eggs, centre for celery or pickles, are $2.50. (Good idea for a little wedding gift.)

Penny Saver can be reached at EV 2-3131. She'll tell you where to shop.

DEAR ABBY...

In Other Words, Chum...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who never loses when he gambles. He says he's got a system and I believe it. He will play black jack, shoot craps and tell me in advance that he will win $500 and quit, and sure enough, that is what happens. I have watched him and cannot figure it out. Could he have a "system" or how can this be explained?

BYSTANDER.

DEAR BYSTANDER: Any one who has a "system" that never fails in a game of "chance" must be getting a little co-operation. He knows something about the cards (or dice) he is handling that you don't know.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and a junior in high school. I am 5-ft. 2, weigh 110 and measure 35-24-35. I have blonde hair and wear glasses. I am a better than average student and take part in many school activities. I don't dress or act loud and have plenty of nice clothes. People say I have a nice personality. Everyone comes to me for advice about mother trouble and boy-friends and girl-friends. You're probably wondering what my problem is. Well, I don't have a boy-friend. Nobody ever asks me for a date. What can I do, Abby? LONESOME.

DEAR LONESOME: You are doing everything possible to make yourself date bait. The problem is "the boys." They are afraid to get "involved" by asking for a date. (Expense, no car, etc.) When boys realize that there are dozens of girls (nice ones) who'd love to spend a quiet evening at home, just talking and listening to records, they'll wake up and get off the dime.

DEAR ABBY: We have been having a big discussion about something very serious and would like your opinion. What is the difference between Sex and Love? THE INQUIRERS.

DEAR INQUIRERS: In a nutshell: Sex is satisfaction with just anybody, while Love

DIVIDING TRIP EXPENSE:

My husband and I and a cousin and his wife will leave next week for a motor trip across the country. We will go in our car and, of course, will divide the expenses. We think that each couple should take every other turn buying gasoline, meals and lodging. The cousins say that each couple should pay separately for the meals, then, after we return home, settle the car expenses equally. How do the majority of people do it, and which is right? Should the couple furnishing the car pay for less gas?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS

People traveling in this way decide amicably and fairly beforehand in one way or another, depending on what suits them the best. They weigh every suggestion logically and carefully so that no one gets the best or worst of the bargain. Taking turns in paying as you go isn't likely to balance. Then hang goes dissection and someone is disgruntled. One night you may be staying in an expensive hotel or motel and the next night lodging may be less. Oftentimes car expenses and lodging come under one category when they divide equally. Individual meals vary too much for an even split. One suggestion is for each couple to put ten or twenty dollars in a "kitty" for car costs until the amount is gone, then repeat. Somehow it seems a bit stingy to feel that the couple furnishing the car should pay less. The other couple would undoubtedly feel some obligation, such as doing something extra for you either on the trip or after you return.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Whoever took the first bath certainly started something! This business of bathing has caused a stir right down through the ages. After the splendor and artistry of the old Greeks, Egyptians and Babylonians, bathing became a fine orgy for the Romans and finally a gentlemanly delight for the Edwardians.

Even before the correlation between cleanliness and health and good looks was fully grasped, it dawned on the populace that bathing was a nicety. Word got around that ladies and gentlemen were more acceptable to society if they were clean. The first public bathtub known to exist in the United States was in a Kansas hotel.

It was a wood lined copper tub about six feet long. Guests of the hotel were asked to register in two books—one for accommodations, the other for the privilege of taking a bath.

How different that is from today! The revival of the glamorous bath probably got its flying send-off from Hollywood. Movies showing beauties lolling shoulder-deep in soapsuds made bathing look like fun, and there was always the suspicion that if we did the same we might look like them.

Why settle today for an ugly

Substitute Aunts Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Social worker Marion Murphy is leading a drive for more "substitute aunts" to help run homes when mothers are ill.

"There used to be more aunts, sisters and grandmothers on hand to help out in household emergencies," says Miss Murphy, a Canadian Welfare Council official.

"But today, too often there is nobody the family can call on."

One reason was rapid population shifts during boom times that followed the Second World War.

"Families are living in Vancouver while their relatives are in Halifax."

Miss Murphy is secretary of a council committee whose members from coast to coast are promoting development of homemaker services to help families who need someone to step in and run the home temporarily.

Doctor-Missionary Finds Heart-Break and Joy in African Field

By MARIE MILBURN

The black mother brings in her little nine-year-old to the new hospital. She asks the white woman to give the child a pill to stop her cough. The doctor examines the little girl. She has tuberculosis and leprosy.

"You must leave her here in our care. We must treat her before deformities set in."

The mother will not understand. She goes away.

The hospital does not see them again.

This is a common story for Dr. Enid McRuer—in Victoria on furlough from Mankinge Hall, Northern Rhodesia. She with her pharmacist husband is one of three doctors at a South African General Mission hospital which serves the natives of 250 miles of African brushland.

But here is the other side of the picture.

A young man with feet swollen unbelievably with elephantiasis, blind from leprosy and afflicted with thyroid disorder is willing to stay. His family lives in the native compound and the doctors are slowly curing him through their knowledge and skill.

He is one of thousands says Dr. McRuer.

"When they are troubled we talk to them. They need a faith so tragically. Often they find the love of Christ through us." When she can reach the soul of her patients she feels she is fulfilling her calling.

Dr. McRuer is the daughter of a building missionary, W. R. Morrison, who now lives in Victoria. He took his family to China when he went to build hospitals and churches for missions there. Enid was born in China.

Later in Canada she realized missions were to be her life, too. Inspired by a woman doctor who worked in India, Dr. McRuer decided on medicine as her way of serving.

Altrusa Club Elects New Head

Miss Marjorie Siddall was elected new president of Altrusa Club of Victoria at the group's recent meeting. Other officers are Mrs. U. Slack, vice-president; Miss Marion Bollingbroke, recording secretary; Mrs. Jessica Grant, corresponding; Mrs. Marie Cooper, treasurer; Mrs. I. Regan, Mrs. I. Carroll and Mrs. A. Wood, board members.

Miss Mona Jewell was named delegate to Altrusa international convention which is to be held in Chicago in July.

Plans were made for a forthcoming bazaar and tea to be held at the Old Charming Inn on April 25.

Woman's Auxiliary, St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Anglican Church, rummage sale, Friday, Orange Hall, 7 p.m.

A tall, earnest young man had the same ambitions in the field of pharmacy. While studying at the University of Manitoba the two met, fell in love and married.

"We knew God's place for us was in the mission field," she explains simply. "We applied, were accepted and went."

Mr. Morrison went ahead of his daughter and her husband and built their African home. A 100-bed hospital has now developed from the first tiny clinic.

The McRuer's two children, "little Africans" Grace and Caron, were born at the hospital.

Dr. Enid McRuer with Grace and Caron, are in Victoria visiting her father, Mr. W. R. Morrison, while Mr. McRuer is on deputation, speaking throughout the United States and eastern Canada. The family returns to their mission hospital in Northern Rhodesia in July.

"We have always hoped that they could associate freely with the black children, but even at a Christian mission, it is nearly impossible."

"The children cannot even be brought together at school. The white child is encouraged to learn from infancy. The black is not. By school age the white child can learn three times more quickly. The native is left behind."

"We will have to send our little girls away to a white boarding school 200 miles to the north. The native school could not cope with the differences in background."

"But we dream of equality someday—and work for it."

Harrison Hot Springs Honeymoon for Couple

Barbara Isabel Singleton and Gerald David Wray who were married recently in St. Luke's Anglican Church, left, following a reception in Holyrood House, for a honeymoon at Harrison Hot Springs.

Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Singleton. Groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wray. Rev. T. D. B. Ragg performed the evening ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white brocade, styled floor length with a train. A rhinestone tiara held her chapel length veil and she carried red roses, white carnations and freesia. She was given in marriage by her father.

Christ Church Cathedral Scene of Wedding Service

Cala lilies banked the chancel and altar of Christ Church Cathedral recently for the marriage of Louisa Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Neichenbauer, Moss Street, and John Kenneth Scott-Polson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Scott-Polson of Wesley Road.

Rev. C. M. Hubbard heard the vows.

Crystal charm taffeta in graceful waltz-length style formed the bride's wedding gown. Scalloped neckline was trimmed with seed pearls and sequins. A web-like tiara of sequins and pearls held her misty shoulder-length veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and feathered carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor Miss Audrey Scott-Polson wore an aquatoned satin and net waltz-length dress. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. A gown in pink lace was worn by junior bridesmaid Miss Charleen Scott-Polson. Her bouquet was of aqua carnations.

Kenneth Faray was best man. Rex C. Mitcham proposed the bridal toast at the reception in Club Sirocco.

For her honeymoon, the new Mrs. Scott-Polson wore a navy silk shantung suit, white velvet hat and accessories. Her corsage was a gardenia. Newlyweds are making their home at 1517 Coldharbour Road.

SHE'S NO SLOUCH
OTTAWA (CP)—The most unusual figure at a garage-men's convention here was a garage woman.

Joan Crowhurst operates a highly successful gas station, repair shop and car-rental agency in North Vancouver. She also sells and services Rolls-Royce cars.

A native of North Vancouver, who served with the Canadian Women's Army Corps overseas in the Second World War, she is not only a keen business woman but is also no slouch as an auto mechanic.

how much are you really paying for "FREE" hot water?

Let's face it—hot water is never free. If you're heating water with old-fashioned coils in your furnace or stove, your fuel bills are higher than they should be. What's more, you're losing costly heat through that inefficient uninsulated water tank! With a modern, automatic storage heater, you pay only for the hot water you use; once it's heated the insulated tank keeps it hot. The cost of providing automatic hot water for an average family is a few cents a day per person. And what a convenience to have all the hot water you want—simply by turning a tap!

A plentiful supply of hot water from an automatic electric or gas storage water heater is the greatest blessing in the home

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—I've just been asked a surprising question. "Have a lot of pretty, young girls," inquired a male acquaintance, "been annoying you lately by wanting to hug you and kiss you and fondle you?"

Frankly, none had, but not wanting to appear a wallflower, I smiled knowingly and said, "You, too?"

"Darned embarrassing, isn't it?" fretted my friend. "I'm 60"—he's 65, but never mind—"and when one of these 20-year-olds hurls her shapely self on my chest and says, 'Tey Lover, how about a smooch?' I cringe. An old-timer of about 70 who lives at a nursing home tells me he gets these advances made at him, too. By young girls in the neighborhood who want to teach him—the cha-cha-cha. You know what I think it is?"

"What is it?" I asked anxiously. I figured it must be some sexy shaving lotion I didn't know about yet.

"It's the population change! We men are at last the exclusive sex. We are going to be wooed and the pursued."

"If it'll help the country, I'll endure it," I said, bravely, gritting my caps.

But I knew that my woman-chased friend was right. The male shortage that was once Hollywood's, leading beautiful starlets to phone men for dates, pick them up and also pick up the cheques, has spread until in all sections of the country, young girls are going to be "carrying the U.S. male."

I went to a recent party attended by the most glamorous models and starlets in New York, including Miss Tina Louise.

"Isn't it too bad?" one pretty thing whinned to me. I asked what was too bad. "Not enough men to go around, as usual," she answered deep in gloom. I didn't mean to blab this, but it was at this same party that one girl told me I was obviously such a grand chap I was entitled to have two wives at the same time.

The Midnight Earl... Annamaria Alberghetti reveals there's a tangle regarding her April 14 wedding date with Buddy Bregman—both have business commitments then... Maestro Nat Brandwynne demanded a salary increase to work at Eddie Fisher's Las Vegas opening; the hotel refused, so Eddie will pay the extra foot himself... Hal March may tour with "Two for the Seesaw"...

Richard Boone, playing Lincoln in "The Rivalry," isn't happy about posing for pictures as Honest Abe—thinks it'll affect his "Have Gun" rating... Meredith Willson, who wrote "Music Man," will get two college degrees in Iowa June 7... The Bob Hopes plan a second honeymoon after the N.Y. premiere of "Alias Jesse James"...

Joni James is buying a $95,000 plane for her concert tour... Sugar Ray Robinson wants to open a cafe in Nassau... Farley Granger's in a lather about the plush dressing room the "First Impressions" producers gave Hermione Gingold.

Earl's Pearls: An extravagance is anything you buy that is of no earthly use to your wife.

Today's Best Laugh: Hehny Youngman describes his new foreign car: "It's called a Mafia—under the hood there's a hood."

Wish I'd Said That: L. S. McCandless comments on these sophisticated times: "Remember when the bright sayings of kids could be printed?" Someone mentioned a B-way phony: "If they counterfeited a three-dollar bill, his picture would be on it!" That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times. Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Frances Gurn, aged 15, of Hinton, West Virginia, for her question:

Does the Hippopotamus Sweat Blood?

Sometimes the hippo's thick hide becomes covered with a pinkish dew. He looks for all the world to be sweating blood. But actually, this is not so at all. The big fellow spends about half of his time in the water. Since he is a warm-blooded, air-breathing land animal, this calls for a special kind of skin. For, as you know, your skin objects if you keep it too long in the water.

The hippo's thick skin is fitted with special pores which protect it both in the water and in the dry air. These pores give off an oily fluid which happens to be pinkish in color. After a few hours in the dry air, this pinkish oil oozes up to the surface of the skin. The hippo seems to be sweating blood.

Certainly this oily fluid prevents the hippo's hide from becoming dry in the air. Some experts believe that it is even more useful during the long hours spent in the water. The oil may protect the skin from the water, which tends to lick off the natural oils which keep the hippo's skin soft and supple.

Apart from his pink so-called sweat, the hippopotamus has other fascinating features. He has the largest mouth of any land animal. What's more, he loves to open it wide just for you to admire. The monster teeth you see there are strong enough to snap a toothy, armor-plated crocodile in two. This explains why the meaty hippo can share a river with hordes of hungry crocodiles and have no fear of being attacked.

Chief Feed Water Weeds

True, the hippo will never win a bathing beauty contest. But no bathing beauty could ever compete with his performance in the water. He can swim against a strong current. He can walk on the bottom of the river. He can sink like a stone or rise like a cork as he chooses. Usually, he stays under water about two minutes. But, when necessary, he can hold his breath and stay under water for half an hour.

In spite of his looks, the hippo has a very pleasing character. Like most of the large animals in the world, he is a vegetarian. He does not look upon smaller animals as possible snacks. He is willing to live and let live. However, he refuses to be tormented and he makes short work of any meat-hungry crocodile foolish enough to attack him.

The hippo's main food is water weeds, which he tears loose from the river bed. He prefers to spend his time between lazy sunbathing and ducking to find food. But sometimes he gets hungry for land plants. Then he may steal into a nearby truck garden at night and stuff himself on lettuce or other salad greens. This seems to be his only annoying habit.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Rob Bonney, age 11, of Jackson, Mississippi, for his question:

Was There a Real Robinson Crusoe?

Daniel Defoe based his wonder story on the true life adventure of a marooned sailor. He was Alexander Selkirk, born in Fifehire, Scotland in the year 1676; at the age of 3, Selkirk was put ashore on an island in the Juan Fernandez group, some 400 miles off the coast of Chile.

The real life Crusoe lived in solitude on his island for four years and four months. He was rescued in the year 1709 and returned to England in 1711. Two sea captains published stories of Selkirk's island adventures. Selkirk himself told his own story in print. Daniel Defoe used these accounts, together with facts gathered from meeting the island hero, added his own touch of storytelling genius, and came up with the never-to-be-forgotten tale of Robinson Crusoe.

Fish Marketing Problem Acute, Says Minister

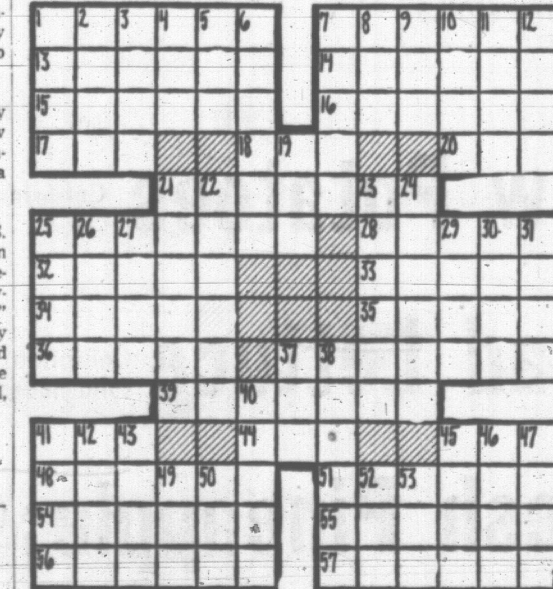

OTTAWA (CP)—Fisheries Minister MacLean said Tuesday bigger catches by the Canadian fishing industry and foreign fishing fleets in coastal waters are making Canada's problem of fisheries management "acute and urgent."

He also told a luncheon meeting at the three-day annual convention of the Fisheries Council of Canada: 1. Canada's fishing industry in 1958 had a "fairly good year" except for a sharp reduction in salt codfish production on the Atlantic coast. 2. A British Columbia herring management committee has been established to work out new management practices and procedures for the B.C. herring industry.

PRESSURE GROWING

Mr. MacLean told the 200 delegates attending the convention that fishing "pressure" on both coasts is intense and is increasing each year. "Modern improved fishing craft and fishing gear, electronic equipment and increases in the numbers of fishing units have all tended to aggravate our problem of sound fisheries management," he said. "Sound management is essential to ensure that there will be continued and expanded supplies of the fish resources and adequate and profitable utilization."

OUTDOOR THEATRE
NOW OPEN THURSDAY,
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (AP)—Paul Robeson made theatrical history Tuesday night in William Shakespeare's home town.

He opened the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre's 100th season as Othello in Othello.

He kissed blonde Mary Ure six long times.

He became the first Negro to play the part of the Moor in this celebrated theatre's history. He answered 15 curtain calls, was applauded and then cheered.

When the audience was clapping its wildest, Robeson stepped forward and applauded the audience.

"I'm very happy," said the veteran actor, who will be 61 Thursday. "That was a wonderful audience, one that an actor can feel."

Many people who wedged into the theatre unquestionably came out of curiosity to hear whether Robeson's deep bass voice had lost much of its old vigor.

His performance was nothing short of amazing. Robeson turned in an amazing performance.

New Austin A-55 Proof Of U.K. Car Revolution

If anyone doubts that the British motorcar industry has undergone a second industrial revolution since the war—even in the last decade—he need only look over and try out the newest Austin A-55. The transformation assumes miraculous proportions when it is realized that an economic revolution accompanied this industrial one.

Let me explain. This latest of Austins costs, today, precisely $100 more than did the 1947 Austin "10" when new. Yet the difference between these two models is not much less than between the Wright Brothers' machine and the latest turbo-prop. Austin's famous and disarmingly charming saloon of 1947 was typical of the British family car of the day—and, like all 1947 models the world over, of basically prewar design.

Technically, these overseas cars were in many ways behind North American cars, particularly in respect of suspension layouts and handling characteristics. They had a nostalgically authentic "vintage" feel to them.

An agent for them might well have quoted the new and green clerk in an antique shop, who, as a deathless cartoon has it, eagerly assured an affluent looking browser that "indeed, we have the latest things in antiques!"

Instead, today's representative for Austin cars may truthfully say to the world "we have the latest thing in 1½-liter motor cars," period. Designed by that incomparable Italian artist in metal—in his own way, a latter-day Benvenuto Cellini—Pinin Farina, the new Austin A-55 is in faultless taste, aesthetically.

Its hidden, mechanical, virtues are worthy of the car's appearance, as are the provisions for creature comforts within its spacious and amazingly luxuriously equipped body, not forgetting the really enormous luggage space in the trunk—excuse me, boot.

Plenty of Room

Disposing of the coach work first, the new Austin is a spacious four-seater, or may be used as a basic six-seater, though the delightfully precise floor-mounted gear lever may be thought, shall we say, friendly, by the middle passenger in front. In front, two separately adjustable seats are provided (which may easily be aligned so as to carry three abreast, subject to the above) a luxury which, so far, only the makers of the Rambler, among all American family car builders, have seen fit to provide. Leather and carpeting surround the occupants with an air and aroma of luxury that only these materials can impart to the interior of a car.

The 1½-liter BMC engine makes light work of whisking the Farina-Austin, with a full complement of passengers and luggage, along at legal speeds, up-hill or down-hill.

It is a high-grade engine. Its generously-sized main bearings are made of costly lead-indium, and its top compression rings are chrome-hardened. In its latest form, the rings are also differently designed and fitted, successfully overcoming an otherwise inevitable rise in oil consumption as speed increases. New carburation, and freer-flowing manifold arrangement extract useful added power from this fine engine.

All of which would be of little avail were it not for the very fine BMC transmission with its ideally-spaced gear ratios, and the perfectly-positioned and precise gear control lever, to which reference had already been made. The hydraulically-actuated clutch, and the Girling brakes, are all fully up to their respective jobs.

Unit Construction

The whole car is of the desirable unit construction—chassis and body forming one strong and permanently rattle-free unit. The wheel-base, at 100 inches, is not short for this size of car, nor does the riding pattern bespeak a substandard wheel-base. The ride is level, free of pitch and bounce, and my assiduous search for potholes has failed to cause the suspension to "bottom."

The new Farina-Austin comes uncannily close to an ideal family car. Its price represents first-class value for money. It is roomy, it is plenty fast even for those who enjoy getting speeding tickets, it is above average in quality and engineering throughout. The only way in which it is skimpy is in its fuel consumption.

The Pyrenees, mountain barrier between France and Spain, reach heights of more than 11,000 feet.

Phil Lee's Two for the Show

(A) "SHERIFF OF FRACTURED JAW" (Capital)—At last! 20th Century-Fox, with the help of the English, has come up with a western that is truly different. Kenneth More, who is very hot property overseas, proves on the heels of his triumph in "A Night to Remember"—the Titanic story—that his versatility is almost limitless. In "Sheriff of Fractured Jaw" he is an Englishman sent to the old west for the purpose of selling firearms (fowling pieces for gentlemen). But unlike other western heroes who are firearms salesmen, such as Christopher Colt, More can't hit a bull's seat with the proverbial snow shovel. Immediately he is made sheriff of the town of Fractured Jaw, becomes middle man in a brewing range war, commits the unpardonable sin of selling guns to the Indians and is in such a state that it doesn't appear as though he is going to live long enough to enjoy the honour promised by gun-totin' Jayne Mansfield.

How More solves his difficulties one by one with nothing stronger under his belt than a strong cup of English tea makes "Sheriff of Fractured Jaw" an excellent comedy of morals and manners. More, as usual, is entirely competent and Miss Mansfield is exactly right for this type of work just as she was in "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?" Others, such as Henry Hull, William Campbell, Bruce Cabot also give a solid account of themselves. Credit is also in order for Daniel M. Angel, the producer, and to Raoul Walsh who directed it.

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE OSCAR SHOW—Considering the millions of dollars of talent and experience involved I thought Hollywood's 31st annual Academy Award presentation was a Grade A, gold-plated stinker.

Before continuing I'd like to make it plain that it's the show that I'm speaking about, not the awards. They were fair and just as always.

Not that I would have voted for "Gigi" as best picture of the year, I thought "Auntie Mame" had more to say and said it better. But then I didn't have a vote and, what's more, all the five best of 1958 haven't reached Victoria yet.

I'm a great admirer of Susan Hayward and was pleased that she won her "best actress" Oscar for "I Want to Live."

The Barbara Graham story allegedly on the perils of capital punishment. However, again if I had a vote, it would have been for Rosalind Russell's "Aunt Mame."

As for the rest, David Niven, "best actor," Burl Ives and Wendy Hiller as "best supporting" they appeared to be solid favorites even before the event.

Indeed, although this was supposed to be the closest and "most exciting" Oscar race in a long while there were relatively few surprises and if someone had bet according to the number of nominations received he wouldn't have harmed his pocketbook at all.

The winners pretty well ran to form. Now, back to the show itself.

For one thing the show was so well planned to the second that they planned all the fun out of it. There was no time left over for the unexpected, the spot of off-the-cuff humor or the mental lapse, the little things that have spelled such success for Oscar of other years.

Of all the emcees I enjoyed David Niven and Sir Laurence Olivier the most. They both had command of the situation and exuded authority and charm.

THE WORST was Jerry Lewis who combined poor taste with bad jokes and almost single-handedly reduced the dignity of the Academy Award presentations to the level of a Minsky burlesque house.

And still on the subject of bad taste, why all the jokes about poor young Diane Varsi who, when most girls are just beginning to go out seriously, has two ruined marriages to her credit and has fled a brilliant career in an effort to find herself. Why not pick on some bigger game. Heaven knows there was plenty about? There was Liz and Eddie and Debbie and there was Ingrid Bergman, all tough pros who are used to the rough and tumble catch-as-catch-can game of the celluloid jungle.

And wasn't it wonderful to see that Miss Bergman has forgiven Hollywood for all those nasty uplifted eyebrows and come back to them for a near standing ovation! True she's a great actress, one of the greatest of her age and perhaps one shouldn't think of her as a person and especially one shouldn't think of her private life.

On the other hand, watching her Tuesday night, one couldn't help but wonder what would happen to your daughter or mine if they had emulated the actress even to the slightest degree. Somehow or other I don't think they would have returned to the community with any hope of an ovation. I doubt if they'd even be allowed to shop in the same supermarket as the rest of the girls.

Oh the 105 minutes wasn't all waste. There was a delightful chore with Maurice Chevalier who received a special award. I enjoyed the singing of the five top songs, especially "Gigi" and the comedy of Mort Sahl. And, for the second year, the show was without commercials.

But, in conclusion, it was all so little to what it might have been.

'GOON EDITION' AFTERMATH Former Student Worked on Paper

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia official said Tuesday night a non-student took part in the publication of the March 26 "goon edition" of the university's student newspaper Ubysses which resulted in the mass suspension of the paper's editorial staff.

At the same time, the faculty council received a written apology from associate editor Rupert Buchanan and agreed to remove his suspension from the university.

The council lifted a similar suspension Monday from editor Al Forrest after he wrote an apology.

The official said Mrs. Barbara Hanson, who last attended the university a year ago and wrote for the newspaper as Barbara Bourne would be on probation if ever she returned to resume her studies.

"If and when she returned, she would be suspended from participating in any publication activities," he said.

The official said he believed Mrs. Hanson had helped friends of the newspaper's staff during the past year and had joined in the production of the edition lampooning Easter which was later branded sacrilegious, blasphemous and in bad taste.

Two others who took part in the production, Dave Robertson and Judy Frain, will remain under suspension from publication activities, but the students' council has recommended that nine others, some not involved in the controversial edition, be reinstated by the faculty council.

50 FISHERMEN EARN $20,000; GET BENEFITS

OTTAWA (CP)—The Fisheries Council of Canada was told Tuesday that some 50 west coast fishermen each earned $20,000 last year and now are collecting unemployment insurance.

James McGregor, director of the insurance branch of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said the fishermen are entitled to collect $30 a week.

Several delegates attending the council's annual meeting wondered why the fishermen should be entitled to collect in view of their large 1958 incomes.

Mr. McGregor said no means test is applied in the payment of unemployment insurance. Fishermen also were not affected by the current ceiling of $4,800 above which salaried workers made no contribution and are not entitled to benefits.

He said no consideration is being given to any changes in regulations governing fishermen.

Somebody's Filling Linen Closet

The second Victoria hostelry to complain of a laundry thief in a single day lost $200 worth of linens, rugs and blankets Monday night, police said Tuesday.

Robert Macmillan, of Macmillan's Motel, 617 Gorge, said his entire linen supply was stolen from an unlocked storage shed. It included:

Six throw rugs, six bedspreads, 28 sheets, 32 pillow cases, 41 bath towels, 12 face towels and four blankets, all with laundry marks.

Earlier, W. W. White, manager of Drake Hotel, 1405 Store, said a linen-filled trunk was stolen from a hotel fire-escape during the night.

Charity Boycott 'Naive and Stupid'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A suggestion by a United States community chest leader that communities boycott independent money-raising campaigns by agencies outside community appeals has been described as "naive and stupid."

Douglas Geekie, acting executive secretary of the British Columbia Tuberculosis Society, Tuesday said "our American friends connected with community chests say many things. We are fortunate their Canadian counterparts are neither naive nor stupid."

Mr. Geekie was commenting on a statement here Monday by Evert Landon, president of Valley Incorporated of Tacoma, Wash., general chairman of the Tacoma-Pierce County united neighbor campaign who addressed the western regional public relations conference of community chests here.

Mr. Landon urged complete support of federated appeals "and then hold the line at those appeals."

He said communities should "cold shoulder drives which are not combined in a federated appeal."

U.S. Congressman Jeffery Coe, long-time union executive active in community chest work also favored a boycott of independent campaigns.

Raymond E. Vester of Portland, a member of the board of governors of the American National Red Cross, said a Red Cross chapter joining a united community appeal should have a written contract assuring it of its rights to set out its own budget.

Mr. Geekie said the TB society remained outside the united appeals because much of its work is in educating the public and "would be lost" among other services.

$750 IN PRIZES

Victoria Daily Times Silhouette Contest

No. 27

Silhouette Contest Rules

1. The Silhouette Contest is simple and easy to win. It consists of 60 silhouette drawings of widely known persons and 120 pictures. All you have to do is identify the silhouettes, not by name but by pairing them with pictures of the people you think are portrayed in the silhouettes. Each person shown in silhouette will be shown by picture but not necessarily on the same day. In addition there will be 60 pictures of other persons who will not be shown in silhouette drawings. Thus you will have 120 pictures from which to make your 60 selections to go with the 60 silhouettes. Keep the 60 left over pictures. They will be needed for the final Silhouette Scramble.

2. The contest starts on Saturday, March 7, 1959. Each day for 60 days one silhouette and two pictures will be printed. After you have paired a silhouette with a picture, paste or in some way fasten the matching pair on a single sheet of paper. All 60 sheets are to be fastened together in order and each sheet should bear your name.

3. The Times will award $750 in cash prizes to the winners. There are no entry fees. The prizes are:

1. $500
2. $100
3. $50

4. The contest is open to all residents of Vancouver Island with the exception of employees of the Times and Victoria Press Ltd. and members of their families. Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one immediate family.

Cancer Fight Boosted

VANCOUVER (CP)—The National Cancer Institute today stepped up the tempo of cancer research in British Columbia.

The institute, which co-ordinates cancer research throughout Canada, announced the award of $88,000 in grants and fellowships to 14 B.C. researchers.

This is an increase of $35,000 over last year's total and more than double the 1957 figure.

H. R. King, executive secretary of the B.C. division of the Canadian Cancer Society, called it a "striking indication" of the institute's "increasing faith in the work of B.C. researchers."

The largest award, a $9,670 research grant and a $6,250 fellowship, went to Dr. D. K. Ford who has been investigating the inner makeup of the body cells at UBC's G. F. Strong laboratory.

Dr. Ford is attempting to unravel the mystery of how cancerous cells are created and how they can be controlled. He also is studying the role of viruses in cancer.

Rising School Costs Spark Special Talks

COURTENAY — Growing burden of school costs will be discussed at a meeting in Victoria this week between Mayor Bill Moore, city officials and representatives of the provincial finance department.

City fathers have reduced the general budget to the 1958 level of 17 mills, but taxpayers still face a larger tax to offset the 36 per cent rise in the school rate.

Earlier, the mayor criticized the B.C. government for a drastic increase in the school mill rate, "which the municipality is forced to collect."

"UNJUST FORMULA"
"We regret having to postpone essential city works year after year to accommodate the government's unjust formula," he said.

Some $32,000 was sliced off public works and waterworks estimates due to the school costs, while another $34,500 was taken from other reserves.

Public Gets Blame For Hospital Costs

PORT ALBERNI — Public demand for medical treatment has accounted for the rise in hospital costs, Lloyd F. Detwiler, assistant commissioner of the P.C. Hospital Insurance Service, told the Vancouver Island Regional Hospitals' Association here.

And costs will continue to rise, he predicted, because medicine will not be allowed to lag behind other sciences.

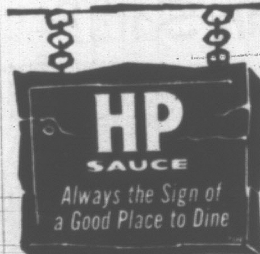

"The public is becoming more and more aware of what can be received from the medical profession and from the hospitals."

People are accepting the fact they are entitled to basic care and the need has been converted into a demand, the speaker said.

On the basis of the "right" to health services, Mr. Detwiler said there was no other agency than the government through which this might be obtained.

DUNCAN — King's Daughters' Hospital started the new year with a deficit of $8,442 to the end of February, as compared with $6,936 for the first two months of 1958.

RECOVERY UNDER WAY

Living Costs Climbed; Real Earnings Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living standards underwent a slight decline in 1958, Parliament was informed today.

Smallwood Promises '2nd Look'

(Times News Services)
OTTAWA — Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood promised in a Canadian Club address today his provincial government will review its recent controversial labor legislation.

The premier, speaking before a record gathering, carefully avoided comment on his strained relations with the federal government.

He said that the labor legislation was passed during the bitter logging strike because "stark disaster stared us in the face."

The polka-dot bow-tied premier described the controversial legislation as "the most progressive in Canada."

He promised, however, that "when the present excitement dies down in Newfoundland we will take another look at the legislation."

Mr. Smallwood said the present "excitement" will die down and "Canada will reassess its role of ignoring Newfoundland as it has done for the last 10 years."

The remark dissolved the audience into laughter, cheers and applause.

Another remark which brought prolonged applause was: "We will not allow union gangsterism or gangster unionism in Newfoundland."

Nearly all of Mr. Smallwood's address was devoted to his version of the Newfoundland loggers' strike and a bitter attack on the International Woodworkers of America (IWA).

Mr. Smallwood said the IWA "let loose the mob spirit" and had misused its power "shamefully."

NO PCs

The head table guests included Opposition Leader Pearson, J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonaville-Twillingate, and other Liberals but no Progressive Conservatives.

Earlier Mr. Smallwood called on Mr. Pearson at the Opposition Leader's office in the Parliament building.

Mr. Smallwood said after the half-hour visit that he and Mr. Pearson had had a "pleasant chat" and that they will be having dinner together tonight.

Living costs outpaced small gains in wages, reducing real earnings and paring consumers' purchasing power for the first time in recent years, Finance Minister Fleming reported in his pre-budget white paper.

Adding up the over-all economic score for 1958, he concluded that while recession may have hit Canada hard, recovery now is under way.

The big problem for 1958 was unemployment, which hit a postwar high.

EXPORTS DECLINE

A lot of key exports, such as newsprint and metals, declined. Interest rates fell.

But there was "mounting evidence" late in the year that "recovery was under way," Mr. Fleming said.

In marked contrast to the same period 12 months earlier, economic activity in the fourth quarter of 1958 rose substantially. The volume of non-farm output of seasonally adjusted annual rates expanded by approximately two per cent.

The over-all production rise in 1958 was "modest." The gross national product-value of all goods and services produced—climbed by 2.5 per cent to a record $32,200,000,000, but four-fifths of this rise was in prices.

As the economy struggled to get back on its feet, farm folks may have fared a bit better than city dwellers. Farm cash income, which had eased in 1957, swelled by eight per cent to $2,808,000,000, just two per cent below the 1952 record.

MORE UNEMPLOYMENT

Labor, generally, had its troubles. While the over-all civilian labor force rose to 6,127,000 from 6,003,000 in 1957, the number of persons with jobs dipped to 5,722,000 from 5,746,000.

The number of persons seeking work climbed to an average 405,000 from 257,000 in 1957 and 180,000 in 1956. Unemployment, as a proportion of the labor force, went up to a post-war high of 6.6 per cent, compared with 4.3 per cent in 1957.

Employment began to pick up towards the year-end. Average annual wages rose by $61 to $3,534, up 1.8 per cent, compared with a rise of $132 or four per cent in 1957.

However, living costs increased by 2.6 per cent. The advance in per capita earnings in 1958 failed to keep pace with the rise in consumer prices and there was a slight decline in real income.

This compared with a slight rise in real income in 1957 and an advance of four per cent in 1956.

Amid the unemployment problem, Canadians generally were able to spend more and still save more. Total consumer spending increased to $20,713,000,000 from $19,768,000,000 in 1957. Personal savings totalled $2,096,000,000, sharply higher than the $1,467,000,000 in 1957.

But this saving was offset by heavy spending by governments, particularly the federal administration. Total deficits by all governments came to $1,046,000,000 in 1958, compared with a $52,000,000 surplus in the year previous.

The nation's total savings fell by $349,000,000 or 9 per cent in 1958, compared with a drop of $193,000,000 or 3 per cent in 1957.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of the pre-budget white paper tabled in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming:

Budget deficit for fiscal year ended March 31 estimated at peacetime high of $616,000,000 compared with $38,000,000 in previous year.

Expenditures rise to all-time high of $5,387,400,000, compared with $5,087,400,000 in 1957-58.

Revenues drop to $4,770,800,000 from $5,048,800,000.

Budget spending does not include $376,000,000 for old age security and $211,800,000 drawn from special defence equipment fund.

Personal income tax largest revenue item at $1,571,000,000, but down from $1,499,000,000.

Defence largest budget item at $1,437,200,000, but down from $1,687,400,000.

Finance minister says Canada past unemployment peak.

Gross national product rises 2.5 per cent to record $32,200,000,000, but higher prices mainly responsible.

Federal net debt at March 31 estimated at $11,685,800,000, a rise of $639,500,000 in the year.

Personal income rises to $24,566,000,000 from $23,142,000,000.

Corporation profits slip to $2,820,000,000 from $3,009,000,000 before taxes.

Bad News Comes Thursday

OTTAWA (CP)—The crystal-gazers have called the shot: Some taxes may be slightly raised Thursday night. But which ones and how much are the big mysteries.

One thing appears certain—taxpayers are not likely to be able to pull out many plums from Finance Minister Fleming's second major accounting to Parliament and the public.

Faced with the prospect of record government spending, the budget Mr. Fleming presents at 8 p.m. (5 p.m. PST) Thursday is likely to be one based on the need of obtaining higher revenues.

The huge budget deficit may be reduced, but there is no likelihood at this stage that Mr. Fleming will try to balance the books. The aim would be to increase confidence in the government bond market, which sagged last year amid heavy government borrowing.

In a sense, too, Mr. Fleming may have to tread gently in the search for more revenue to make sure he doesn't upset economic recovery. Some authorities say too great a tax load could discourage industrial expansion.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Help us, O Lord, to grow in the stature of moral measurement to the proportion of our physical achievement. May we consider the welfare of one another more important than exploring the regions of outer space. Even in the scientific world, faith, hope and love abide forever; through Christ, Amen.

Fleming Reports On 1958-59 Year

By JOHN LeBLANC, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A peacetime record budget deficit of $616,000,000 is indicated for the federal 1958-59 fiscal year, Finance Minister Fleming told Parliament today.

Budget spending soared to an all-time high of $5,387,400,000, he estimated in a White Paper, while budget revenues fell by $278,000,000 to $4,770,800,000 in the year ended March 31.

FIRST FULL YEAR

Reporting on the Progressive Conservatives' first full fiscal year in control of the treasury, Mr. Fleming presented the financial picture of the last year as a curtain-raiser to his 1959-60 budget which he will submit to Parliament at 8 p.m. EST (5 p.m. PST), Thursday night.

The new budget will set taxes and indicate the outline of government spending for the new year.

The 1958-59 deficit compared with one of $38,000,000 in the previous year, based on revenues of $5,048,800,000 and expenditures of $5,087,400,000.

In his budget speech last June, Mr. Fleming had forecast a deficit of $648,000,000 based on revenues of $4,652,000,000 and spending of $5,300,000,000. He later revised the deficit estimate to about $700,000,000.

SUBJECT TO REVIEW

The figures are subject to revision about August, when final accounts for the year are in. But the white paper estimates are customarily close to the mark.

The 1958-59 deficit compares with an all-time high of $2,558,557,000 in the war year of 1944-45. The previous peacetime record was $390,342,000 in 1919-20. The top since the Second World War was $151,849,000 in 1956-57.

A variety of normal non-budgetary transactions left the government's cash balances up by $166,000,000 compared with a year earlier.

At the end of the year, the net debt stood at $11,685,800,000, an increase of $639,500,000. In budget revenue, the personal income tax continued as the largest single source of intake, bringing in $1,571,000,000, down from $1,449,000,000. The white paper said the decreases resulted from decreases in rates and increases in exemptions for dependents.

CORPORATE TAXES DOWN

Corporation income tax yielded $1,029,000,000, down from $1,234,800,000. It was the second-highest producer. The drop of almost $206,000,000 was accounted for largely by lower corporate profits in 1958.

The income taxes do not include revenue from the special 2 per cent tax for old age security—the universal pension paid at the age of 70.

Defence remained the heaviest budget expenditure at $1,437,200,000, but the special draw-down from the defence equipment fund helped bring

Everybody 'In Hock' By $685

OTTAWA (CP)—The net debt of the federal government was an estimated $11,685,800,000 at March 31—roughly $685 for each of the 17,340,000 people in Canada.

The pre-budget white paper, tabled in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming, showed the net debt rose $639,500,000 during the 1958-59 fiscal year.

At the start of the year the net debt of the government—$11,046,300,000—represented $649 for each of the 17,000,000 population at April 1, 1958.

The increase was due to the record peacetime deficit estimated at $616,000,000 for the year plus an adjustment of $22,900,000 covering previous years' transactions.

The cost of financing the public debt—mainly interest payments—rose to $644,400,000 for the year, up by $77,000,000 from the 1957-58 year. The total represented 12 per cent of budget expenditures.

Below the 1957-58 figure of $1,687,400,000. These totals include defence production and civil defence.

Second-largest item was the financing of the public debt, which accounted for $644,400,000 against $567,400,000 in the previous year.

NEWFOUNDLAND GRANTS

Subsidies and tax-sharing payments to the provinces came to $467,200,000, up from $382,700,000. These included $13,600,000 to Newfoundland as the 1957-58 and 1958-59 payments—where the federal government has agreed to undertake as special assistance to the province until 1962.

The federal decision to extend this aid only until 1962 now is under fire from Premier Smallwood.

Family allowance payments of $474,900,000 were up from $437,900,000, reflecting an increase in the number of children in the eligible age groups and an increase in the monthly allowances effective in late 1957.

In a review of the Canadian economy for the 1958 calendar year, the white paper said the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—climbed 2.5 per cent to a record $32,200,000,000. However, four-fifths of the increase was accounted for by price rises.

LABOR DELEGATES HIT BY FOOD POISONING

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hundreds of delegates to the AFL-CIO unemployment conference here were stricken with food poisoning, some en route Tuesday night and others in the meeting hall today.

At least 30 were taken to hospitals from the National Guard Armory where the meeting was held. One man was reported in serious condition.

Shooting in the Vatican Wounds Swiss Guard Chief

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The commander of the Pope's Swiss Guards, Col. Robert Nuenlist, was shot and wounded today by a disgruntled former guardsman. The ex-guardsman, Adolf Rucker, was wounded when the commander sought to disarm him.

An ex-Swiss Guard fired two pistol shots at the commander of the corps, wounding him, but not seriously. The guards headquarters announced.

The ex-Swiss Guard had insisted on being re-enlisted into service after having been expelled last year because of epileptic symptoms caused by a cranial trauma.

There were varying accounts as to whether the former guardsman shot himself or was wounded accidentally in a scuffle.

Col. Nuenlist and his son August, 39, had just finished lunch when word came that Rucker wanted to see the colonel. The colonel went to a Vatican courtyard.

August Nuenlist heard two shots, then a pause and two more. He ran out and found his father wrestling with Rucker. The son helped subdue the ex-guardsman.

The shootings, unprecedented in the history of the Swiss Guards, caused turmoil at the Vatican.

At first there was tight secrecy in the case. The head of the Vatican press office, Dr. Luciano Casimiri, responded to questions by saying that the matter was "too delicate" for him to discuss.

1259 OR 1959?

'Remove Boat Tariff'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Fisheries Council of Canada today urged the government to remove tariffs and other restrictions on fishing vessels bought in foreign countries.

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton's Hugh McLean, former NHL referee, charged today that Clarence Campbell, president of the league, is "just a figurehead" and that in fact the National Hockey League is run by Jim Norris, chairman of the board of the Chicago Black Hawks.

McLean was commenting on the sudden resignation Tuesday of Red Storey, senior official in the NHL.

The Hamilton referee also quit suddenly several years ago after an incident in a hotel lobby with Rocket Richard.

McLean said the Richard incident had nothing to do with his leaving the NHL.

"It was just that Jim Norris didn't want me, that's all it was," he said today.

Storey, 41, announced Tuesday he was resigning after he read criticism of his officiating of a playoff game by NHL president Clarence Campbell.

Storey was referee of a Stanley Cup semi-final game Saturday in Chicago which was won by Montreal Canadiens, 5-4. The game ended in a near riot as fans critical of Storey's refereeing threw debris on the ice.

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, sent a telegram to referee Red Storey Tuesday urging him not "to resign now" and saying Red was "highly respected" by National Hockey League club owners.

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal Star said in an editorial today resigned hockey referee Red Storey should get a full vote of confidence from the hockey world and National Hockey League president.

A Victoria-owned tug is on her way to Chile today, to start a 10,000-mile tow taking a battleship to Japan for scrapping.

The towboat is the Cambrian Salvor, owned by British Columbia Towing Ltd., a subsidiary of Island Tug and Barge which puts the company in the world wide, deep-sea towing business.

Cambrian Salvor is based at Yokohama. Her sister ship, Sudbury I, is based at Victoria.

Her power will be needed for the 10,000 mile tow.

The battleship is the Almirante Latorre of 28,950 tons. Completed in England in 1915 as HMS Canada, the ship was originally ordered by the Chilean navy, and turned over to Chile in 1920.

She is 661 feet over all, with a 92-foot beam, and draws 32 feet.

Almirante Latorre was given inactive status in 1957, and has been purchased by a Japanese ship-breaking firm.

H. B. Elworthy, Island Tug president, said he hoped to have the tow completed by August, at which time the Cambrian Salvor will return to her Yokohama base.

THE WATERFRONT: REFIT, REPAIRS, A TOUCH OF NOSTALGIA

Refit, repairs, and prelude to restoration made Victoria's Inner Harbor a busy and colorful scene today. Largest privately-owned salvage vessel on west coast, Island Tug & Barge Co.'s Sudbury II, is nearing end of extensive refit which includes new bridge deck (shown at left) and giant towing winch with 3,300 feet of wire. Big sea-going tug will be ready for deepsea tow jobs early in May. Repairs to Johnson Street Bridge, damaged in tug accident last Friday, began in earnest today with fabrication of scaffolding to be slung under bridge to replace damaged 40-foot girder. And work is to be started soon on historic California river boat Delta King, berthed at Point Hope Shipyards where Island tug will prepare it for long tow to Stockton, where it will be restored to old-time glory as tourist attraction after serving as bunkhouse at Kitimat. Delta King will be in harbor here for two weeks while windows are boarded over. (Times Photos by Halkett and Strickland.)

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been studying on the traffic problem and especially the roundabout.

As you know, the traffic problem has become considerably more problematical since the Johnson Street bridge went out of service due to circumstances entirely beyond its control.

Since then, all the traffic which used to go over the Johnson Street bridge goes over the Point Ellice bridge, and 99 per cent of it seems to find its way into the roundabout.

This is why I have been studying on the traffic problem and especially the roundabout.

The roundabout, as is well known to all natives, was designed by the tourist bureau in a fit of fiendish humor.

Now, during the tourist season, the natives gather around the roundabout and howl with laughter as the poor bewildered tourists drive around it the wrong way.

As the roundabout now stands, it is fairly confusing and considerably amusing.

But my studies have convinced me there is room for improvement.

The trouble with the roundabout is, it doesn't go roundabout.

Perhaps that isn't quite clear. What I mean is, the roundabout is round, but it doesn't GO round.

It should be constructed like a merry-go-round.

Motorists would then have the pleasure of a free ride to repay them for their courage in entering the roundabout in the first place.

Motorists who catch the brass ring would be entitled to one free parking ticket.

And the tourists, instead of slinking home shame faced after being laughed at by the natives, would go home singing the praises of this outstanding traffic attraction.

Let us, by all means, mobilize the roundabout.

Motorcyclist Injures Leg In Car Crash

Motorcyclist Frederick Roesner, 28, of 325 Michigan, was treated for leg abrasions and discharged from St. Joseph's Hospital after his bike was in collision with a car at Herald and Douglas at 8:15 a.m. today.

Police said Roesner was thrown from his machine as he rode on Herald and was in collision with a car driven by Frederick Lackner, 845 Balmoral, making a turn into a driveway from Douglas.

There were no injuries in a three-car collision which temporarily tied up rush-hour traffic over Point Ellice Bridge at 7:45 a.m.

The cars crashed in the middle of the span, which has carried capacity traffic on Bay Street since Johnson Street Bridge went out of commission in a marine accident Friday.

Porch Climb Brings Fine, Reprimand

Twenty-year-old naval rating Gerald A. Stuart was "ticked off" and fined $100 in city police court today for climbing a 14-foot balcony to a sleeping girl's bedroom last week.

Stuart pleaded guilty to a charge of prowling by night at 1:30 a.m. April 2. Police caught him after he tried to get into the room of Henrietta Southwell, 1152 Burdette, by climbing onto a balcony to her window.

He had told Magistrate William Ostler he was on his way home and "just dropped in" to see a friend.

The magistrate told Stuart it was fortunate the girl awoke and that he went away at her insistence because that was the only thing in his favor according to a probation report.

"IRRESPONSIBLE" The report indicated a "pattern of irresponsibility" and was "far from satisfactory," Magistrate Ostler noted.

"It was certainly a silly thing to do, but also a criminal offense. If you get into court again you will have no reason to expect lenient treatment," granted this time in view of Stuart's age, the court said.

Magistrate Ostler noted a previous offence against Stuart's record was for taking a municipal bus without consent at Prince Rupert recently.

BLANSHARD WIDENING PROPOSED

Widening of Blanshard between Memorial Arena and Hillside was recommended today by city public works committee.

Present 60-foot width would be increased to 90 feet to increase traffic capacity of the street when it is extended to the Patricia Bay Highway as recommended in the Capital Region Planning Board's master plan.

The committee asked city council to approve the widening in principle and change zoning regulations as required.

Immediate zoning changes were requested to cover the Pembroke-Blanshard intersection.

A plan for the widening designed to eliminate need for drastic alterations to substantial buildings on the street has been worked out by the city engineer's department.

Drama Groups 'Polishing' For Festival

With exactly a week to go before opening night of the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival, theatre groups in the Greater Victoria area have entered the final feverish stage of polishing, dress rehearsals, rounding up of furniture and properties, and all the multiple details that even a one-act play production involves.

The festival will take place at Oak Bay Junior High School, April 15 to 18.

Competing for benefit of adjudication from mainland drama specialist Anthony Holland, and for one of three places on the Saturday night honor program, will be St. Luke's Players with two entries, Fireside Theatre with two, Columbine Players, Victoria Theatre Guild, Peninsula Players of Sidney, Intimate Stage, Royal Jubilee Hospital Nurses' Drama Club and St. Andrew's Cathedral Players.

Only project remaining in the yard after April will be outfitting of the ice-breaker Camell, due to be turned over to the federal government in September.

But he said there was "nothing in sight" for the yard after the end of April.

This month will see completion of two Yarrow jobs, installation of new boilers in these are completion of installation of hydrographic survey ship William J. Stewart, and conversion and annual overhaul to HMCS Stettler.

Other prizes to be awarded in the 14 games will include: A $3,165 Dodge Regent Club sedan; a $339 Sylvania convertible TV portable; a $639 stereo radio phonograph combination; $429 automatic freezer refrigerator; $1,500 holiday boat with 18 horse-power motor trailer; $425 British Indian floral rug; $250 spring wardrobe; $195 five-piece kitchen chrome set; $198 movie camera, projector and screen; $200 complete gardeners' outfit; $425 do-it-yourself household kit.

COFFEE TABLES Consolation prizes will include a number of $50 hand-carved mahogany coffee tables; $200 worth of groceries; and a number of $26 de luxe electric toasters.

"This is the biggest prize list we have offered yet and all prizes have been purchased from local merchants," said Jack Phillion, chairman of the Kinsmen's bingo game committee.

ACT EARLY "All the previous bingo games we have held have been sell-outs, so those who want to attend should get their tickets soon."

Proceeds from the 14th game will go towards improving the swimming pool at Kinsmen Gorge Park, installing picnic benches and extra playground equipment.

Barge Mishap Provides Jobs At City Yard

True to the ill wind that blows no good, recent Up-Island grounding of a Powell River Co. barge will provide jobs for 100 men for six weeks at the Yarrow's shipyard here.

The vessel is the self-dumping log barge, Powell No. 1, which had her bottom ripped out when she went ashore in the Queen Charlotte Islands. Extensive repairs are required to the 3,730-ton, 342-foot barge.

BIGGER PAYROLL Meanwhile, yard general manager John Wallace said today present 500-strong work force was more than 200 larger than the number of men employed at this time last year.

But he said there was "nothing in sight" for the yard after the end of April.

This month will see completion of two Yarrow jobs, installation of new boilers in these are completion of installation of hydrographic survey ship William J. Stewart, and conversion and annual overhaul to HMCS Stettler.

Prizes valued at $11,000—the highest yet—will be awarded at the 14th Giant Bingo Game promoted by Victoria Kinsmen's Club at the Memorial Arena Monday, April 27, at 7:45 p.m.

More than 101,000 attended the previous 13 games at which prizes totalling more than $140,000 were won. The average number turned away at each game, due to lack of space, was around 1,500.

Local charities have received donations exceeding $50,000 since the games were started.

GORGE PARK Proceeds of the 14th game will go to the development of recreational facilities at Kinsmen Gorge Park.

More than 2,500 tickets have already been sold since sales opened at Eaton's store last Friday.

Persons buying tickets between then and April 20 at 5:30 p.m. will be entitled to enter the "Dream of Dreams" vacation contest.

FOR TWO Five of these tickets will be drawn during intermission and the holders will then play off for an all-expenses-paid vacation for two people to any city of their choice in North America.

This prize will include return tickets for two with hotel accommodation and $20 a day spending money for 10 days.

NEW CAR Other prizes to be awarded in the 14 games will include: A $3,165 Dodge Regent Club sedan; a $339 Sylvania convertible TV portable; a $639 stereo radio phonograph combination; $429 automatic freezer refrigerator; $1,500 holiday boat with 18 horse-power motor trailer; $425 British Indian floral rug; $250 spring wardrobe; $195 five-piece kitchen chrome set; $198 movie camera, projector and screen; $200 complete gardeners' outfit; $425 do-it-yourself household kit.

WOMAN DRIVER BLAMES HUBBY FOR ACCIDENT

Elsie K. Brown, 5417 West Saanich, was fined $35 in Saanich police court Tuesday for careless driving. And it was all her husband's fault.

"My husband was sitting with me," Mrs. Brown told the court, explaining how she pulled out of her driveway into the path of another car, causing a collision.

"He's supposed to watch out the right side, which he didn't do."

"Better not trust your husband. Look out yourself next time," Magistrate William Ostler advised.

New Work to Cut Party-Line Spats

A $500,000 two-year program to improve and enlarge service in Greater Victoria is being planned by B.C. Telephone Co., general manager W. S. Pipes said today.

It results from demand for better service by party-line subscribers in Oak Bay and Esquimalt, and new telephone applications from outlying areas.

Mr. Pipes said work had already started in Esquimalt, where a $100,000 cable project would reduce the number of subscribers on a municipality lines.

SAME RATES Extension of the two-mile base rate exchange boundary to include the two municipalities was a big reason in the demand for better party-line service, he added.

"In effect, this eliminated exchange line mileage charges for Oak Bay and Esquimalt subscribers, enabling them to pay the same rates as subscribers in the city centre who were originally within the boundary."

Mr. Pipes, a company vice-president, noted that more than $3,500,000 had been spent on telephone improvement in Greater Victoria during the last two years.

This included $1,500,000 on the new long-distance switchboard which went into operation last weekend, $1,500,000 on extra automatic switching equipment, and $580,000 on outside cables.

Also, automatic telephone service had been inaugurated in Sidney and Keating, plus free calling between Victoria and the Saanich Peninsula.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Monthly meeting of the Auxiliary, Multiple Sclerosis Society, will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort.

A meeting of the Victoria and District Cornish Association will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Williams, 2177 Smythe Street, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Victoria Social Credit Constituency monthly meeting will be held at the Knights of Pythias Hall on Cormorant Street at 8 p.m. Monday, April 13. City Engineer J. Garnett will speak.

Result will be announced at a special meeting in Vancouver Thursday of a vote taken by the National Association of Marine Engineers to decide whether the union will merge with the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers.

Brotherhood executive secretary Fred Nicol, of Ottawa, will be a main speaker.

City public works committee today recommended that council endorse the decision to give Victoria Machinery Depot a contract to make a replacement girder for Johnson Street bridge, closed since its main girder was sliced by a tug Friday.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court:

Everett L. Olson, 3722 Tillam, $40 and restricted to business driving only for three months, and Ralph W. E. Colgrave, 1379 Simon, $40, for careless driving.

Frank E. W. Edlund, 1240 Victoria, $30 for speeding over 30.

Norman D. Gallant, 871 Snowdrop, $40 and licence suspension for careless driving and $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Clyde Claxton, Mount Newton Crossroad, $25 for violation of driver's licence restriction.

Roland L. Prince, 1730 Joyland, $10 for driving without licence plate.

Two United States destroyers on a reserve training cruise will visit Esquimalt this month, the navy announced today.

USS Waits and USS Laws will arrive at 1 p.m., April 24, and leave at 9 a.m., April 27.

A total of 26 officers and 325 men are in the two ships.

Vancouver Island Rabbit Breeders' Association will hold its monthly meeting at Strawberry Vale Women's Institute Hall, Wilkinson Road, next Friday at 8 p.m.

Victoria juveniles aged 10, 11 and 12 years were responsible for breaking into a Bay Street warehouse and causing about $300 damage to bagged cement and insulation at the weekend, city police said Tuesday.

Cement bags were slashed open with a knife and the insulation sacks burst by jumping on them. Office of the premises, operated at 409 Bay by Butler Bros. Ltd., was entered also, but nothing of value stolen, police said.

Two women passengers slightly hurt in a two-car collision at McTear and Service Streets in Saanich at 5:20 p.m. Tuesday were discharged from Jubilee Hospital after treatment.

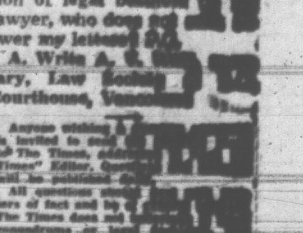

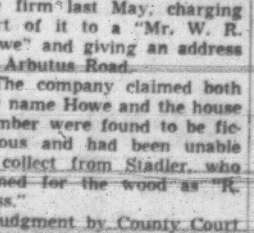

Police identified them as Mrs. Margaret Rutter, 2849 Delaire, who was riding in a car driven by Charles Smith, 1328 Point, and Mrs. Margaret Birkett, 1949 Waterloo, passenger in a car driven by her husband, Robert.

City engineer James Garnett today told public works committee that his department gradually is painting Johnson Street bridge in aluminum. It not only improves the looks of the black bridge span but also reduces the temperature differential between seasons.

Admiring a pair of shoes she was trying on in a downtown store cost Mrs. Sidney G. Randall, 577 Brookleigh, her purse containing $30 cash, two bank books, driver's licence and a pair of glasses.

Mrs. Randall told city police at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday she put her purse on a chair and walked over to a mirror.

A thief stepped up to the chair, took the purse and disappeared.

RECOVERY UNDER WAY

Living Costs
Climbed; Real
Earnings Down

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living standards underwent a slight decline in 1958, Parliament was informed today.

FINANCIAL HIGHLIGHTS

OTTAWA (CP)—Highlights of the pre-budget white paper tabled in the Commons today by Finance Minister Fleming:

Budget deficit for fiscal year ended March 31 estimated at peacetime high of $616,000,000 compared with $38,600,000 in previous year.

Expenditures rise to all-time high of $5,387,400,000, compared with $5,087,400,000 in 1957-58.

Revenues drop to $4,770,800,000 from $5,048,800,000.

Budget spending does not include $376,000,000 for old age security and $211,800,000 drawn from special defence equipment fund.

Personal income tax largest revenue item at $1,371,000,000, but down from $1,496,000,000.

Defence largest budget item at $1,437,200,000, but down from $1,687,400,000.

Federal net debt at March 31, 1958, $1,437,200,000.

Living costs outpaced small gains in wages, reducing real earnings and paring consumers' purchasing power for the first time in recent years, Finance Minister Fleming reported in his pre-budget white paper.

Adding up the over-all economic score for 1958, he concluded that while recession may have hit Canada hard, recovery now is under way. The big problem for 1958 was unemployment, which hit a postwar high.

EXPORTS DECLINE

A lot of key exports, such as newsprint and metals, declined. Interest rates increased. Bond prices fell. But there was "mounting evidence" late in the year that "recovery was under way," Mr. Fleming said.

"In marked contrast to the same period 12 months earlier, economic activity in the fourth quarter of 1958 rose substantially. The volume of non-farm output of seasonally adjusted annual rates expanded by approximately two per cent."

The over-all production rise in 1958 was "modest." The gross national product-value of all goods and services produced—climbed by 2.5 per cent.

Smallwood Promises
'2nd Look'See Page 11
(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Newfoundland Premier Joseph Smallwood promised in a Canadian Club address today his provincial government will review its recent controversial labor legislation.

The premier, speaking before a record gathering, carefully avoided comment on his strained relations with the federal government.

He said that the labor legislation was passed during the bitter logging strike because "stark disaster stared us in the face."

The polka-dot bow-tied premier described the controversial legislation as "the most progressive in Canada."

He promised, however, that "when the present excitement dies down in Newfoundland we will take another look at the legislation."

Mr. Smallwood said the present "excitement" will die down and "Canada will reassess its role of ignoring Newfoundland as it has done for the last 10 years."

The remark dissolved the audience into laughter, cheers and applause.

Another remark which brought prolonged applause was: "We will not allow union gangsterism or gangster unionism in Newfoundland."

Nearly all of Mr. Smallwood's address was devoted to his version of the Newfoundland loggers' strike and a bitter attack on the International Woodworkers of America (IWA).

Mr. Smallwood said the IWA "let loose the mob spirit" and had misused its power "shamefully."

NO PCs

The head table guests included Opposition Leader Pearson, J. W. Pickersgill, Liberal MP for Bonaville-Twillingate, and other Liberals but no Progressive Conservatives.

Earlier Mr. Smallwood called on Mr. Pearson at the Opposition Leader's office in the Parliament building.

Mr. Smallwood said after the half-hour visit that he and Mr. Pearson had had a "pleasant chat" and that they will be having dinner together tonight.

'Campbell Figurehead
—Jim Norris Runs NHL'

(See also Page 12)

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton's Hugh McLean, former NHL referee, charged today that Clarence Campbell, president of the league, is "just a figurehead" and that in fact the National Hockey League is run by Jim Norris, chairman of the board of the Chicago Black Hawks.

McLean was commenting on the sudden resignation Tuesday of Red Storey, senior official in the NHL.

The Hamilton referee also quit suddenly several years ago after an incident in a hotel lobby with Rocket Richard.

McLean said the Richard incident had nothing to do with his leaving the NHL.

"It was just that Jim Norris didn't want me, that's all it was," he said today.

Storey, 41, announced Tuesday he was resigning after he read criticism of his officiating of a playoff game by NHL president Clarence Campbell.

Storey was referee of a Stanley Cup semi-final game Saturday in Chicago, which was won by Montreal Canadiens, 4-1. The game ended in a near riot as fans critical of Storey's refereeing threw debris on the ice.

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, president of Maple outsiders, is something that is just not done.

"Red Storey is part of hockey, and an important part. He should not be allowed to depart the game he loves in this fashion. What the hockey world should do is see that he gets the full vote of confidence he deserves."

And the initiative in the matter is Mr. Campbell's. It is the only way he can atone for his blunder."

MONTREAL (CP)—A series of crank telephone calls were received at the home of referee Red Storey here.

Mrs. Storey said the calls were "annoying more than anything."

"They were probably from people who had bet on the game," she said.

"Some of the callers said that Red had better not come back home."

Official Report
Before Commons

By JOHN LeBLANC, Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A peacetime record budget deficit of $616,000,000 is indicated for the federal 1958-59 fiscal year, Finance Minister Fleming told Parliament today.

Budget spending soared to an all-time high of $5,387,400,000, he estimated in a White Paper, while budget revenues fell by $278,000,000 to $4,770,800,000 in the year ended March 31.

Reporting on the Progressive Conservatives' first full fiscal year in control of the treasury, Mr. Fleming presented the financial picture of the last year as a curtain-raiser to his 1959-60 budget which he will submit to Parliament at 8 p.m. EST (5 p.m. PST), Thursday night.

The new budget will set taxes and indicate the outline of government spending for the new year.

The 1958-59 deficit compared with one of $38,600,000 in the previous year, based on revenues of $5,048,800,000 and expenditures of $5,087,400,000.

In his budget speech last June, Mr. Fleming had forecast a deficit of $648,000,000 based on revenues of $4,652,000,000 and spending of $5,300,000,000. He later revised the deficit estimate to about $700,000,000.

SUBJECT TO REVIEW

The figures are subject to revision about August, when final accounts for the year are in. But the white paper estimates are customarily close to the mark.

The 1958-59 deficit compares with an all-time high of $2,358,357,000 in the war year of 1944-45. The previous peacetime record was $380,342,000 in 1919-20. The top since the Second World War was $151,849,000 in 1956-57.

A variety of normal non-budgetary transactions left the government's cash balances up by $166,000,000 compared with a year earlier.

At the end of the year, the net debt stood at $11,685,800,000, an increase of $639,500,000. In budget revenue, the personal income tax continued as the largest single source of intake, bringing in $1,371,000,000, down from $1,449,000,000. The white paper said the decreases resulted from decreases in rates and increases in exemptions for dependents.

CORPORATE TAXES DOWN

Corporation income tax yielded $1,029,000,000, down from $1,234,800,000. It was the second-highest producer. The drop of almost $206,000,000 was accounted for largely by lower corporate profits in 1958.

The income taxes do not include revenue from the special 2 per cent tax for old age security — the universal pension paid at the age of 70.

Defence remained the heaviest budget expenditure at $1,437,200,000, but the special draw-down from the defence

OTTAWA (CP)—The net debt of the federal government was an estimated $11,685,800,000 at March 31 — roughly $685 for each of the 17,349,000 people in Canada.

The pre-budget white paper, by Finance Minister Fleming, showed the net debt rose $639,500,000 during the 1958-59 fiscal year.

At the start of the year the net debt of the government — $11,046,300,000 — represented $649 for each of the 17,000,000 population at April 1, 1958.

The increase was due to the record peacetime deficit estimated at $616,000,000 for the year plus an adjustment of $22,900,000 covering previous years' transactions.

The cost of financing the public debt — mainly interest payments — rose to $644,400,000 for the year, up by $77,000,000 from the 1957-58 year. The total represented 12 per cent of budget expenditures.

Bad News
On Taxes
Thursday

OTTAWA (CP)—The crystal-gazers have called the shot! Some taxes may be slightly raised Thursday night. But which ones and how much are the big mysteries.

One thing appears certain—taxpayers are not likely to be able to pull out many plums from Finance Minister Fleming's second major accounting to Parliament and the public.

Faced with the prospect of record government spending, the budget Mr. Fleming presents at 8 p.m. (5 p.m. PST) Thursday is likely to be one based on the need of obtaining higher revenues.

The huge budget deficit may be reduced, but there is no likelihood at this stage that Mr. Fleming will try to balance the books. The aim would be to increase confidence in the government bond market which sagged last year amid heavy government borrowing.

In a sense, too, Mr. Fleming may have to tread gently in the search for more revenue to make sure he doesn't upset economic recovery. Some authorities say too great a tax load could discourage industrial expansion.

Shooting in the Vatican
Wounds Swiss Guard Chief

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The commander of the Pope's Swiss Guards, Col. Robert Nuenlist, was shot and wounded today by a disgruntled former guardsman. The ex-guardsman, Adolf Rucker, was wounded when the commander sought to disarm him.

An ex-Swiss Guard fired two pistol shots at the commander of the corps, wounding him, but not seriously, the guards headquarters announced.

The ex-Swiss Guard had insisted on being re-enlisted into service after having been expelled last year because of epileptic symptoms caused by a cranial trauma.

There were varying accounts as to whether the former guardsman shot himself or was wounded accidentally in a scuffle.

Col. Nuenlist and his son August, 19, had just finished lunch when word came that Rucker wanted to see the colonel. The colonel went to a Vatican courtyard.

August Nuenlist heard two shots, then a pause and two more. He ran out and found his father wrestling with Rucker. The son helped subdue the ex-guardsman.

The shootings, unprecedented in the history of the Swiss Guards, caused turmoil at the Vatican.

At first there was tight secrecy in the case. The head of the Vatican press office, Dr. Luciano Casimiri, responded to questions by saying that the matter was "too delicate for him to discuss."

BULLETINS

Bodies of 20 Rebel Victims Found

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Bodies of about 20 Algerians, many of them chained together, have been discovered by French forces near caves in the Tizi-Ouzou region used by Nationalist insurgents, it was announced today.

This region was under the command of "Colonel" Amirouche, rebel leader killed last month by French troops.

Grain Worth $1 Million Missing

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that it has found a shortage of more than $1,000,000 worth of government-owned grain stored with a commercial concern at Florence, Ill.

The managing partner of the Couffas Brothers Grain Company will be charged with illegal conversion of government property.

Gunmen Get $11,000 From Post Office

MONTREAL (CP)—Three masked gunmen robbed a post office in suburban Repentigny early today and escaped with $11,000—including $8,000 deposited by a bank for transfer to its Montreal head office.

U.S.-Soviet Travel Ban Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today lifted a travel ban imposed on Soviet officials, saying that the Russians have removed their temporary ban on travel by foreign officials.

CHILE TO JAPAN

10,000 Mile Tow
For City-Owned Tug

A Victoria-owned tug is on her way to Chile today, to start a 10,000-mile tow taking a battleship to Japan for scrapping.

The towboat is the Cambrian Salvor, owned by British Columbia Towing Ltd., a subsidiary of Island Tug and Barge which puts the company in the world wide, deep-sea towing business.

Cambrian Salvor is based at Yokohama. Her sister ship, Sudbury I, is based at Victoria and is finishing extensive re-fit (see Page 15).

The Salvor left Honolulu today after bunkers. Arthur Elworthy, vice-president of Island Tug, and Norman Turner, executive vice-president of Victoria, superintendent, were at Honolulu to supervise final preparations for the long tow.

Mr. Turner has been in Japan for nearly a year, supervising extensive renovations to Cambrian Salvor. Continued on Page 30 which make it one of the most powerful deepsea towboats in the world.

Her power will be needed for the 10,000 mile tow.

The battleship is the Almirante Latorre of 28,950 tons.

Completed in England in 1913 as HMS Canada, the ship was originally ordered by the Chilean navy, and turned over to Chile in 1920.

She is 661 feet over-all, with a 92-foot beam, and draws 32 feet.

Almirante Latorre was given inactive status in 1957, and has been purchased by a Japanese ship-breaking firm.

H. B. Elworthy, Island Tug president, said he hoped to have the tow completed by August, at which time the Cambrian Salvor will return to her Yokohama base.

equipment fund helped bring it below the 1957-58 figure of $1,687,400,000. These totals include defence production and civil defence.

Second-largest item was the financing of the public debt, which accounted for $644,400,000 against $567,400,000 in the previous year.

NEWFOUNDLAND GRANTS

Subsidies and tax-sharing payments to the provinces came to $467,200,000, up from $382,700,000. These included $13,600,000 to Newfoundland as the 1957-58 and 1958-59 payments, which the federal government has agreed to undertake as special assistance to the province until 1962.

The federal decision to extend this aid only until 1962 now is under fire from Premier Smallwood.

Family allowance payments of $474,900,000 were up from $437,900,000, reflecting an increase in the number of children in the eligible age groups and an increase in the monthly allowances effective in late 1957.

In a review of the Canadian economy for the 1958 calendar year, the white paper said the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—climbed 2.5 per cent to a record $32,200,000,000. However, four-fifths of the increase was accounted for by price rises.
